

other policies which have not been traced by police.

It was also learned today that another son of the Meekers, Andrew J. Meeker, 13, died unexpectedly on Nov. 15, 1926. Mrs. Meeker's testimony at the inquest was that both she and the boy became ill after eating canned beans and a physician who was called suspected ptomaine poisoning. An autopsy, however, showed acute dilatation of the heart with simple meningitis contributing, and that cause was entered in the inquest verdict. An analysis of the viscera by the Gradwohl laboratory showed "no morphine, strychnine or arsenic present."

After Andrew's death, Meeker collected $1000 on an insurance policy in the American National Life Co., for which he had been a salesman for a short period. The company paid claims on policies issued for both boys without question, but officers of the company wondered why Meeker refused to call at the St. Louis branch office for his checks. Instead, he insisted on getting them at the home of an agent.

Meeker, a switchman for the Terminal Railroad Association, appeared at the Sheriff's office at Clayton at 2 a. m. on July 5, 1927. He reported that three hours before he was riding with his son at Clayton and Price roads when one of four men in a passing machine tossed a whisky bottle into his car.

Tells Sheriff of Shooting.

He stopped, he said, and the men approached, one of them firing two shots which struck the boy. The men then robbed him of $4, he related, and followed his automobile for some distance as he drove to St. Mary's Hospital, where the boy was treated.

Meeker gave such a detailed description of the man who fired the shot that Clayton authorities had no reason to doubt his story. When an inquest was held in St. Louis after the boy's death, the verdict was homicide at the hands of parties unknown. The first information to cause authorities to question Meeker's account was the statement of Attorney Mueller, who said he would take steps to effect the extradition of Meeker to St. Louis County for trial. In her statement at Ithaca, Mrs. Meeker told Sheriff Ellis that she had saved the bullets with which her son was shot.

THEY DID IT, SAID WOMAN, DYING OF TORTURE BY FIRE

Words of Elfrieda Knaak Contradiction of Earlier Story That She Burned Herself.

QUEST IS OPENED AT LAKE BLUFF, ILL.

Victim Visited by Ex-Teacher Before Death Tells Him She Didn't Harm Self.

Associated Press.

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Nov. 2.—Mrs. Elfrieda Knaak, who died yesterday of burns, today told a story which contradicted her earlier statement that she had burned herself. She said she was found last Tuesday morning in the basement of the Lake Bluff village hall with her arms and legs burned.

"I didn't do it—they did it," the woman murmured this morning a few minutes before she died in the Forest Hospital almost three hours from the time she was found. She said she was found in a furnace into which she had thrust her arms in an effort to attain spir- ituality.

"Who did it?" inquired a nurse. "I don't remember," she whis- pered, "but I saw a man come in a short time before she had died. 'I wonder—I wonder,' 'What do you wonder?' she was saying."

Not Entirely Conscious.

and still later Miss Knaak, who was ebbing away, said she had done nothing wrong as a person does what in her mind she thinks to be right, and she was happy."

Miss Knaak, who had been a school teacher, who heard the girl's last words explained that at least part of the time she was not entirely conscious and that she had been burning herself, but when she appeared to be conscious, she said she had been speaking and of spending time when she failed to burn herself, finally deciding to burn herself to prove her spiritual faith. She was taken to the girl's room before she died and asked several questions prepared by the police today and said she did not know the man who had burned her, but when he asked her: "You didn't do this terrible thing, did you?" she faintly replied "No." She either re- fused to answer or was unable to answer questions, however, but said "goodbye" to Hitchcock.

Inquest Is Opened.

An inquest was opened this afternoon among the witnesses were Hitchcock and members of Knaak's family it was expected that a woman who went to the police today and said she observed the girl and Hitchcock at the police station at 10 o'clock on the night of Oct. 12. The coroner's jury viewed the body of the inquest went over to pending further investigation.

MRS. MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT, Assistant United States Attorney-General, laid aside the cares of prohibition enforcement to be matron of honor at the wedding of her college chum, Miss Ellen Volstead, daughter of the author of the Volstead law. This photograph was taken at the wedding in St. Paul. The bride is at the left. The flower girl is Dorothy, Mrs. Willebrandt's 6-year-old adopted daughter.

OUT FOR HOOVER AND PATTERSON

prehensive plan, both as to purpose and method. With respect to government ownership, the differences are largely verbal.

"To my mind, therefore, there are three subjects of first importance in coming to a decision—prohibition, immigration and foreign relations.

"With respect to prohibition I disagree absolutely with Mr. Hoover's statement, and I take no stock whatever in Mr. Smith's promises. The real issue is the eighteenth amendment, which presents the fundamental question: Shall the National Government by degrees be given power to regulate the personal conduct and life of private citizens? I advocate the very decentralization in this respect which Mr. Hoover urged in general in his Madison Square Garden speech. On the other hand, Mr. Smith's promise of modification of the Volstead law is not enough to challenge the constitutional principle, and just enough to put public conscience to sleep.

"Leads to nothing. I prefer the ills we have, in the hope that this humiliating demonstration may finally force an issue upon which a realignment of political parties may be had. There is no relief in a makeshift which merely postpones the agony.

"Beyond that, we have had experience with such promises. Two years ago our senatorial election turned upon them, and what is the result? Hardly a scrap of paper. Today Mr. Smith promises relief from the Volstead law, but neutralizes that promise by his appeal to elect Mr. Hay, who as Senator might at least have a vote, while Mr. Smith as President would have no voice. Leadership for the advancement of a fundamental issue, upon which a reorganization of parties may be had, is made of sterner stuff.

Stresses Immigration Laws

"The attitude of the two candidates with respect to immigration is practically conclusive of my decision. Here is a question as to which, unlike prohibition, the President has direct responsibility. The legislation in controversy is perhaps the worst exhibition in our history of race antagonism and war prejudice. It was put through under the drive of a combination of the most intolerant forces North and South. It accepts a plausible but deceptive standard for the obvious purpose of cutting down by half the quota of every Nordic country, with the exception of Great Britain, which it increases by 100 per cent. Mr. Smith has not shown a suspicion of an appreciation of its significance, as there is nothing in his record of practical sympathy against race discrimination. Mr. Hoover has given proof of a keen understanding of the trend of such legislation, and has from the first, by word and act, labored to keep this law from going into effect. I regard this as the most vital, practical issue of the campaign in the field of domestic politics, and I recommend it to the consideration of those who question Mr. Hoover's fairness and impartiality.

Foreign Relations Vital.

"To my mind, international problems will in the next few years loom larger than domestic questions. Upon this subject we have heard for the first time from Mr. Smith during the campaign. Apart from his advocacy of the League of Nations, there has been no earlier suggestion of his interest in foreign relations. I know that he is aggressively American; but I also know that he has a sympathetic appreciation of the need for the rehabilitation of foreign nations that still suffer from the consequences of a ruthless war.

GRAF ZEPPELIN NO OCEAN CARRIER, ECKENER THINKS

"This Ship Is Finished for Me So Far as Regular Passenger Traffic Is Concerned," He Says.

By the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 2.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, is convinced that faster and sturdier airships are needed for trans-Atlantic flying and is planning to build them.

"We have not conquered the ocean yet," said the commander, who faced the possibility of seeing his ship wrecked in a gale over the Atlantic.

"All our energy and ability must be concentrated now on elaborating plans of the present Zeppelin to provide a more enduring, powerful dirigible to insure really reliable trans-Atlantic air service."

As for the air liner which he built and commanded during a trip of more than 10,000 miles to Lakehurst, N. J., and return, Dr. Eckener said, "this ship is finished for me as far as general regular passenger traffic is concerned."

Describes the Trip.

Dr. Eckener described the trip of the airship and gave his conclusions at a banquet in honor of the crew given by the Zeppelin corporation and later at a torchlight procession in their honor.

On the eastward flight one gale was encountered which would have burst the airship in two if he had continued at high speed, he said. Disaster was averted only when the motors were throttled down to a minimum.

A second gale encountered off the coast of Europe was not much less fierce than the first storm over Newfoundland, he said.

"I did not sleep a wink all that night," he continued. "But the navigation of the ship never failed for an instant."

"Of course the airship rose somewhat, but you should have seen the ships below, tossing like corks, with their decks awash."

Thrown Northward.

How he had suddenly seen below him a "wicked looking object," was recounted by Dr. Eckener. He first took this for a fog formation. Then he decided it was a cloud. A moment later he was astonished to discover that the airship was not a cloud, but a great, dark, and ugly monster, like a giant, with a long, thin neck, and a head like a dragon. He saw the ship had laid a course several hundred miles to the southeast.

"When we saw those mountains of ice underneath us," he continued, "we knew and recognized that the craft of the old ocean was still greater than we had imagined."

"We must learn from our experience to build strong engines for our airships so that we are no longer playthings in the grip of the elements. We must build stronger airships which will enable us to cross the ocean not solely by avoiding storm centers."

American Guests Cheered.

Dr. Eckener paid his compliments to Commander Charles E. Rosendahl and the three other United States naval officers who accompanied the Graf Zeppelin back to Germany.

"I have a heart's duty to perform," Eckener said. "On our trip to America, Commander Rosendahl was one of our best and most loyal friends. Now we have among us three splendid American officers who have grown very dear to us."

"In the intensity of our feeling I see a symbol of strengthening friendship between Germany and America, two nations who are destined to take a lead in aeronautics."

The three Americans thus mentioned rose and bowed, while more than 2000 guests cheered vociferously. A band played "The Star-Spangled Banner" and members of the Zeppelin crew who learned the anthem in America joined in the chorus.

The United States naval officers are Commander M. R. Felt, executive officer of the Lakehurst naval station; Lieut. Thomas G. W. Settle, executive and engineer officer of the dirigible Los Angeles, and Lieut. Charles Edward Bauch, one of the survivors of the Shenandoah disaster. Dr. Eckener hopes to organize a as the better. I knew they couldn't put me off and I was firmly set on one of the world's greatest adventures.

It turned out that the third man did speak to Capt. Lehmann about me and soon I was called before the Captain. I was led down the catwalk to the front end of the ship and thence down through a trapdoor, which was over the ladder leading into the chartroom. Capt. Lehmann asked me in a kindly way just where I thought I was going and I replied I had hopes to end up in Friedrichshafen.

He let me stand there in the chartroom for almost half an hour. It seems that's the way all ship Captains do when they find a stow-away—they let him stand around for an hour or so, apparently to see how he will act before he is put to work. Then Capt. Lehmann told me to go to work in the galley, and that's what I have been doing since the time I was discovered.

All the other passengers, when they learned of my identity were nice to me and said I had lots of nerve. I don't think I have any more nerve than the average boy, but I guess wanderlust is more pronounced in my veins than in most folks.

Offer From Hagenbeck.

I got several offers of jobs over the ship radio, when the papers printed the story of my being on this ship. An official of Hagenbeck's Zoo sent me an offer of a job as lion tamer. He said I probably had enough nerve to hold that kind of a job. A department store in Berlin offered me a job, the duties of which were not clear, and then a German railroad information bureau wanted me to come to Berlin and stay in their booth and let folks know about America.

There is talk of vaudeville contracts and movie opportunities and such like. But the papers have said that I am not a special celebrity in Europe before I come home, and in company with John Ingram, I shall probably attempt this work.

One more thing: Someone might wonder how I was dressed for my aerial journey. I had on a green silk shirt, green trousers, green silk shirt and sweater and suede leather windbreaker—no hat or overcoat.

I have enjoyed this trip immensely so far and it's most certainly been worth all the trouble and cost. I am not a special celebrity in Europe before I come home, and in company with John Ingram, I shall probably attempt this work.

COMPELS HIS WIFE TO PRAY, KILLS HER AND THEN HIMSELF

Atlanta Salesman Also Wounds Young Woman Visiting in Home as She Kneels at Bedside.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 2.—Aurora Bugbee, 28 years old, a salesman, shot his estranged wife to death and wounded her young woman companion as they knelt in prayer at his order early today and then turned the pistol on himself, inflicting a fatal wound.

Mrs. Cora Heckman, 22, the companion, who was taken to a hospital with serious bullet wounds in the shoulder, told police that she and Mrs. Bugbee were awakened by a noise at the window of their apartment.

In a few moments Bugbee was at the bedside.

"I am going to kill both of you," Mrs. Heckman quoted him as saying. "So you had better make peace with your Lord."

Bugbee and his wife, the former Miss Myrtle Jones of Metter and Savannah, Ga., had separated recently after being married three months.

Mrs. Heckman, who was taken to a hospital, said she had been invited to come to Atlanta to help bring peace to the Bugbee household. She said the husband made accusations against Mrs. Bugbee and shot her twice when she denied the charge. Mrs. Heckman was struck in the shoulder and said she rushed to a neighbor's apartment after a fourth shot, with which Bugbee killed himself.

Mrs. Bugbee, who was 22, was the mother by a former marriage of a 6-year-old daughter, Frances Adams. The child now is living in Savannah with Mrs. Bugbee's parents. Mrs. Bugbee recently had filed suit against her husband, who was a flag and novelty salesman. He had been here several months. Three letters indicating his intention to "end it all" were left, one addressed to his brother, Luther, in New York City, and the other two to his employer here.

CHARGES ST. JOSEPH G. O. P. IS INTIMIDATING VOTERS

Democratic State Committee Declares Opponents Have Sent Threatening Letters.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 2.—Charles H. Mayer, member of the Democratic State Executive Committee, today charged that the local Republican organization, aided by police, was intimidating voters. Mayer declared that C. H. Manville, chairman of the County Republican Committee, had sent threatening letters to Democratic voters, warning them not to vote, and that police officers were lining up saloons and disorderly houses for the Republican ticket.

TERHUNE THINKS GERMAN GIRLS ARE A BIT TOO PLUMP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 2.—German girls are a bit too plump to suit Clarence Terhune, the 19-year-old American youth who captured the fancy of many of the frauleins by stowing away on the Graf Zeppelin.

"German girls are nice enough and good looking," he said, "but they are too big for me."

Terhune left today for Stuttgart, where he hopes to obtain a temporary American passport which will enable him to proceed to Paris and catch the first boat for America. He said his plans in America were still unsettled. He said he did not know until a few hours before the airship's departure that he would go on it.

Terhune's Sister Appointed Guardian at His Request.

Mrs. C. M. Hall, 2822 Union boulevard, sister of Clarence Terhune, the stowaway, received a cablegram from him today, dated Friedrichshafen, in which he said: "Please take immediate steps to have yourself appointed my guardian so I can be in a position to sign legal contracts. Clarence."

Accordingly, Mrs. Hall applied to Probate Judge Holtcamp and had herself appointed guardian for the youth. George R. Schoen, representative of the surety company which furnished the required $500 bond for her, said she had no information apart from the cablegram as to the reason for the guardianship, but when the character of the contracts offered Terhune was learned the bond probably will be made larger.

Terhune, as dispatches have said, is being offered chances to write

SHOT BY OFFICER OF UNION WHEN QUESTIONED ON THEFT

Paul Foerge, 49 years old, an iron worker of 2524 South Tenth street, was shot in the left arm this morning by Walter Weaver, secretary of Iron Workers' Local Union No. 396, when Foerge ran out of the union headquarters at 307 North Garrison avenue, where Weaver sought to detain him for questioning by police concerning the disappearance of $500 from the office safe Sept. 4 last.

Foerge, who is held prisoner at City Hospital, denied knowing anything about the money. BRAZILIAN FLYER DROWNED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 2.—Lieut. Roberto Drummond was killed and Second Lieut. Marcio De Souza Kello seriously injured yesterday when a small Spad monoplane in which they were flying fell 500 feet into the sea near Sugar Loaf.

Kello was rescued and the damaged plane salvaged by infantrymen. Both flyers were members of the Army flying school here.

THREE GO TO TRIAL IN COUNTERFEIT PLOT

Defendants Accused of Making and Circulating Spurious Bills in St. Louis.

The Government today will conclude its case in Federal Court here against Antonio Ribaldo, Rosario Minella and Fedele Minella of St. Louis, charged with operating a counterfeiting plant and circulating spurious currency. John H. Mays of Murphysboro, Ill., sentenced at Danville, Ill., to 12 years for manufacturing the plates with which the counterfeiters were printed, was brought from Leavenworth penitentiary as witness for the Government.

Mays was an ex-soldier and as such received vocational training him to make the plates. About two years ago, he testified, a friend introduced him to Ribaldo and the Minellas and he entered a deal with them to make plates for counterfeiting $20, $50 and $100 bills. He said these two furnished the printing press and after more than $300,000 of the notes were run off and some of them circulated he received $250 and a cheap automobile as his share.

He identified the counterfeiting equipment seized by secret service agents as having been set up and operated in St. Louis and Jonesboro, Ill. Federal agents said the spurious money was widely circulated by East St. Louis gangsters in purchasing whisky at the Canadian border for transportation to East St. Louis.

Emil H. Walther, a St. Louis printer, pleaded guilty at the start of the trial and was also used as a Government witness. He connected Ribaldo and the others with a conference at which plans were made for printing the counterfeit currency.

Mays' weeping wife and five small children attended the trial to hear him testify and hysterically clung to him in the corridors during recess.

MONCADO GETS LIFE FOR VITALE MURDER

Maximum for Second Degree Imposed by Judge When Jury Disagrees on Penalty.

A maximum sentence of life imprisonment was imposed by Circuit Judge Rutledge upon Vincent Moncado last night after a jury had convicted him of second-degree murder, but failed to agree on the punishment.

The jury was out for eight hours and once reported to the Court that it was divided, 11 to 1, and probably would not reach a unanimous verdict, no matter how long the deliberations continued. However, Judge Rutledge requested the jury to resume deliberations. Three hours later a verdict was returned. The jury at Moncado's first trial failed to agree on a verdict, making a second trial necessary.

Moncado, a grocer, shot and killed Vincent Vitale, a saloon keeper and bondsman, at the latter's home, 1319A Blair avenue, Nov. 5, 1927. He pleaded self-defense, testifying he drew his revolver and fired after Vitale had thrown him to the floor and choked him. He said he had gone to Vitale's home to protest against an attempt by four men to extort money from him, and Vitale advised him to "pay up or leave town."

However, Vitale's widow, who witnessed the shooting, testified that Moncado came to the house in an angry mood, declared Vitale's brother was a "dishonorable man" and then, without provocation, attacked Vitale and shot him. Moncado fled, but was arrested later.

AT CLAYMO HOTEL BARU. S. Raiders Arrest Bartender, Caught in Act of Serving Highball.The Claymo Hotel bar, across Forsythe boulevard from the St.
Louis County Courthouse at Clayton, meeting place for politicians and office holders, was raided late yesterday by Prohibition Agents Dillon and Byrd, who reported finding six pints of whisky and three quarts of beer behind the bar and two cases of beer in the basement.The agents said they caught the bartender in the act of serving a highball to a customer. The customer was not molested, but the bartender, who said he was George B. Watson, was arrested. Dillon said Jacob Roth is proprietor of the saloon.Members of the county grand jury, which had just adjourned for the day, witnessed the raid, but made no comment. One of the jurors was entering the saloon when the agents arrived. Across the front window of the place is a tanner reading: "Republican Headquarters" and offices of the Republican County Central Committee are upstairs. The raid was made a few hours before Charles M. Hay, dry Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, delivered a campaign speech at the

SIDENER USING NAMES WITHOUT PERMISSION

Three Republicans whose names are signed to a circular letter, appealing for votes for the re-election of Howard Sidener as Circuit Attorney, today said the use of their names was unauthorized. They are William R. Gilbert, an active worker in the Caulfield-for-Governor campaign; Dr. D. C. Todd, member of the Board of Education; and Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen.

Neun and Dr. Todd said that, while their names were used without their having been consulted, they did not object to their names remaining on the list of indorsees of Sidener. Gilbert said only that he had not authorized the use of his name.

The letter was on the stationery of Theodore Lange, publisher. It read:

Dear Fellow American:

Howard Sidener, candidate for Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, is our friend. He is being criticized for adopting a humanitarian attitude and policy in dealing with youthful first offenders.

As a personal favor to the undersigned, kindly read the enclosed pamphlet. We will greatly appreciate your vote and that of your friends for Mr. Sidener, as we know he is a typical American; a man of the highest type, clean, square, efficient, safe and conservative.

The names signed were those of Lange, Charles Hertenstein, Milton F. Napier, Rodowe H. Abeken, Dr. T. M. Sayman, Dr. Rudolph S. Vitt, Robert J. Kratky, Henry W. Kiel, Julius Seidel, Joseph Hauser, Mrs. George J. Dietz, Dr. Todd, Neun and Gilbert.

The same names are signed to the enclosed circular on "The Official Record of Howard Sidener as Circuit Attorney," with the statement that the signers "wish to go on record as supporting Sidener and indorsing his record of achievements as Circuit Attorney."

The "record" recited is under his head. One of the statements is that, "when re-elected, he will not change his manner of conducting his office."

'STANDPATTISM' IS DISEASE OF G. O. P., SAYS J. M. COX
1920 Presidential Nominee Cites Attitude Toward Tariff, Dry
Law and Farm Relief.
By the Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 2.—
"Standpattism" is the "bedeviling disorder of the Republican party," James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for President in 1920, said in an address prepared for delivery here last night. "The disease has affected its every organism," he asserted, and turned to the tariff, prohibition and agricultural stands of the Republican party in an effort to prove this.

Cox said that in the last 25 years, great advances had been made in industry, invention and science, but Government has lagged. He challenged anyone to "point to a single reform worthy of the name, except the Federal Reserve banking law, which was given to the country during the term and because of the constructive courage of Woodrow Wilson.

Since Wilson, nothing out of the ordinary has happened except corruption, and this came in such character and such volume as to upset all precedent."
Cox declared that Republicans were opposed to taking the tariff out of politics because if "it becomes a matter of scientific effort, and dealt with in a sensible way, it will be lifted out of politics, and then the source of campaign funds is lost to the Republican organization."

He also criticized the Republican party for its "standpattism" in dealing with the liquor and farm problems.

1000 Barrels of Texas Rice at $3.50.
BEAUMONT, Tex.—The first rice sale under the Government grading system was held here recently with the result that 10,000 barrels was sold at $3.50 each. All sales in future will be held by grade rather than by sample, as in the past. A Government grader has maintained an office here since early in the season to place rice on the standard basis.

JACOB M. LASHLY SPEAKS IN BEHALF OF THE BAR LIST

Head of Association Tells Kiwanis Club Recommendations Were Made to Promote Public Welfare.

Jacob M. Lashly, president of the St. Louis Bar Association, spoke before the Kiwanis Club at the American Hotel at luncheon yesterday in support of the Bar Association's recommended list of candidates for Judges and Circuit Attorney.

The candidates recommended by vote of the Bar Association are: For Circuit Judges, Hamilton, Percy, Falkenhainer, Taylor, Ossing and Calhoun, Republicans and Green, Ryan and Sale, Democrats; Circuit Attorney, Miller, Democrat; Judges Court of Criminal Correction, Butler and Gayer, Republicans.

"Under the present system," Lashly said, "our candidates for Judge are obliged to file in the primary, make a strenuous race before the political groups which mainly control the affairs of their party, and at the end of an exhausting and expensive experience find that the best campaigner—not necessarily the best lawyer—has won the nomination."

"The party vote is then polled for the judicial ticket and these lawyers who have been selected as the favorites of the dominant party are elected with the rest of the ticket. Throughout this whole process, the question of professional ability or of judicial temperament has scarcely been considered by anyone, and the Judges may not have been elected upon grounds of fitness at all."

No "Ax to Grind."

"The Bar Association has undertaken to lead the way to a more efficient handling of this important problem. It is not possible under existing law to hold the judicial election at a time apart from the confusion and complexities of a general election, though this is the ultimate goal which many of us have in mind. Nor is any procedure available by which these offices, which are so highly professional and ought to be for that very reason nonpolitical, can be taken out of the field of partisan politics."

"It may be that a popular demand for this important reform will result presently in legislation which will effect a result which all must agree would be so very desirable. But until that time, other methods may be used to assist the public to understand how, in a great city like ours, they may select as nearly as possible a non-partisan judicial ticket based upon grounds of professional fitness rather than political popularity."

He went on to say that the Bar Association's recommendations were designed to serve this purpose, and that the Bar Association had no "ax to grind" in the matter, except to promote the public welfare.

R. F. Buckley Speaks at Church. R. F. Buckley, speaking at St. Peter's Evangelical Church, St. Louis and Warne avenues, in support of the Bar Association's recommended list, particularly Frank Miller for Circuit Attorney, said:

"The selection of the President of the United States means much less to us than does the choice of a conscientious Circuit Attorney. Crime is expensive, and laxity in law enforcement with its attendant crime increase means higher taxes to take the place of the fines which should be paid and are not; it means an increase in fire and theft insurance rates, and it means that substantial and conservative businesses will not locate here and brave the dangers and expense of a war with racketeers. Still more important is the personal danger to which peaceable, law-abiding citizens are subjected."

"You may sit in your comfortable home tonight and read of some boy being shot down in cold blood and the murderer getting off with little more than a reprimand. Tomorrow it may be your son whose life is thus heartlessly taken. Would you then care whether the criminal was brought to justice? Today you read of some unscrupulous debtor defrauding his creditors of large sums of money and being freed from charges of embezzlement. This seems to you unjust, but it leaves little lasting impression upon you. Would it matter to you if this man had defrauded you of your money, and would you then like to think that the city had a Circuit Attorney who could draw an indictment that would stick?"

PAIR OVERCOME BY GAS

ESCAPING IN THEIR HOME

Benjamin Gordon Found in a Stupor and Wife Unconscious by Police.

Benjamin Gordon, a glassblower, 36 years old, and his wife, Rose, 35, were overcome by escaping gas at their home, 317 North Channing avenue, yesterday.

Police summoned by neighbors at noon yesterday found Gordon seated in a chair in a stupor and his wife unconscious on the floor. All gas burners in the house were closed and the gas is thought to have escaped from the pipes through a faulty connection.

Records of Candidates for Four St. Louis Offices and Judge of Court of Appeals

Sheriff, Public Administrator, Coroner and City Treasurer to Be Chosen at Tuesday's Election.

A JUDGE of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, to sit for a 12-year term; a Sheriff, Coroner, Public Administrator and City Treasurer of St. Louis, all for four years, are to be elected next Tuesday.

Twenty-three counties outside St. Louis are included with this city in the Court of Appeals district.

Court of Appeals.
William Dee Becker, one of the three Republican Judges now composing the court, is running for reelection. He is a graduate of Harvard University and the St. Louis Law School, and was admitted to the St. Louis bar in 1901. He was elected to the bench in 1916.

Robert L. Sutton, Democratic candidate for this judgeship, is a native of Pike County, and a resident of Troy, Lincoln County, where he practiced law from 1899 until his appointment, in 1923, as a commissioner of the Court of Appeals. He was Prosecuting Attorney of Lincoln County two terms, and was a delegate to the Democratic national convention of 1920, in San Francisco. As a commissioner of the Court of Appeals, he has done work equivalent to that of a Judge of the court.

Both Judge Becker and Commissioner Sutton were endorsed over their respective opponents in the Republican and Democratic primary, by the Missouri State Bar Association, in a poll taken in July. No indorsement has been made by the association since the primary.

Sheriff.

The Sheriff has charge of the serving of processes of the civil and criminal courts, and the court bailiffs are his deputies.

George W. Strodtman, Republican nominee for Sheriff, is a North St. Louis real estate dealer, head of a building and loan association, and was former chairman of the Republican City Committee. He was appointed Sheriff by Gov. Hyde in June, 1922, following the death of Sheriff Mohrstadt. He served a year and a half, and was not a candidate for the place in 1924.

Strodtman announced on taking office that he would turn over to Mrs. Mohrstadt, widow of his predecessor, one-fourth of the fees received by him within the Sheriff's legal limit of $10,000.

In making his fiscal settlement with the city, in June, 1924, Sheriff Strodtman deducted his compensation at the rate of $10,000 a year, and turned $3925 excess fees into the city treasury. His action called attention to the fact that previous Sheriffs had kept these fees, making their compensation nearer to $20,000 a year than to the legal limit of $10,000. He later turned in $14,000 additional, from fees received after he left office.

Circuit Judges Percy, Taylor and Falkenhainer, investigating the matter, reported that Strodtman's predecessors had unlawfully retained fees amounting to several thousand dollars a year. Legal action to recover the money was called possible, as the approval of the Sheriff's report by the Circuit Judges is a final settlement, and the statute of limitations barred prosecution of the surviving ex-Sheriffs. The Circuit Judges, in a letter written by Judge Rutledge, commended Sheriff Strodtman for the course he had taken.

Thomas R. Madden, Democratic candidate for Sheriff, is in the commission business. He was born in Memphis, but was reared in St. Louis, attending the public schools. He was a member of the Democratic Finance Committees in the campaigns of 1924, 1925 and 1926.

Coroner.
The Coroner has jurisdiction over cases of sudden, unexplained or violent death, and it is his duty in such cases to question witnesses, and, when the interests of justice appear to require it, to hold jury hearings.

The law does not require that the Coroner shall be a physician. Incumbents of this office in St. Louis, for years past, including the present Coroner, have been members of the medical profession. Since the primary, the St. Louis Medical Society has passed a resolution stating that "as between a physician and a layman for the office of Coroner, the physician is the better qualified." The resolution says also that the research council of the American Medical Association has urged members of the medical profession to interest themselves in the choice of the best-qualified candidates for the office of Coroner. The resolution, without mentioning names of candidates, says:

"For the first time in the history of St. Louis a layman has been nominated for the office of Coroner. Since the inception of this most important office a member of the medical profession has always been in charge."

"It is known that the Coroner must determine from a medical point of view the causes of death in cases within his jurisdiction and take such action as circumstances demand. A physician's skill is necessary to properly conduct autopsies, and a layman without knowledge of medicine can succeed only by turning the administration of his office over to one or more technical assistants, thereby becoming a 'useless appendage to the office.'" is at present Deputy Coroner, and has an acquaintance with the work of the office, with which he has been connected since 1916. He was formerly a salesman, and was secretary of the Board of Aldermen in 1915-16.

Dr. Emmet H. Rund, whose name appears on the official ballot without his medical title, is city, as the Administrator, by hasty filing on estates, was able to obtain some large fees and many of moderate size, on a 5 per cent basis. This method of administering the office caused complaint. Recent incumbents of the office, including Otto Hampa, now retiring, have given no occasion for serious criticism. The returns of the office are said to be less than in former years.

RECORDS OF MEN RUNNING FOR FOUR ST. LOUIS OFFICES

Anton Schuler, now Sheriff, is Republican candidate for Public Administrator. He was formerly City Marshal, and was backed by Collector Koehn for Sheriff in the 1924 primary, winning over James N. McKelvey. As Sheriff, Schuler has been charged by City Jailer Primavesi with having granted privileges to Italian gangsters, held in jail on felony charges. These men, Primavesi has charged, were taken out by Deputy Sheriffs to visit their friends, and drank heavily before returning. Primavesi blamed the Sheriff's office for the release of Alfred W. Syrett, who escaped while charges were pending against him.

Schuler advocated the bill, passed by the last Legislature, which now limits the compensation of the Sheriff to $10,000 a year, and makes impossible the practices of Stodtman's predecessors in that office.

Campbell Cummings, Democratic candidate for Public Administrator, is a Washington University graduate, and has practiced law in St. Louis since 1896, except while serving as assistant Attorney-General of Missouri, 1910 to 1912. He also served for three months as Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction, during the illness of the Judge. He has been a candidate at different times for Circuit Judge, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Circuit Attorney.

The City Treasurer is City Hall paymaster, William G. Buchner, who has held this office four years, is Republican candidate for a second term. He has been in the city's employ nearly 20 years, having served in the water rates and sprinkling tax divisions of the collector's office, and for four years as chief deputy Treasurer. Previously he was in the grocery business and fire clay business.

Henry C. Menne, Democratic candidate for City Treasurer, served in that office eight years. He was elected City Auditor in 1901, and City Treasurer in 1912. The 1914 charter removed the treasurership from the list of elective offices, but those in office were permitted to serve out their terms. At the end of Menne's elective term, Mayor Kiel appointed a Republican successor to Menne, but Menne refused to yield the office, and the courts decided that the treasurership was a State office. The Governor appointed Menne until 1918. In that year John W. Dunn obtained a plurality of 15,000 over Menne in the election, but Menne again refused to yield the office, and successfully urged legal disqualifications against Dunn. Thus Menne stretched his 4-year elective term to eight years.

CUMMINGS SAYS PROSPERITY IS DUE TO WILSON REGIME

Former Democratic National Chairman Declares His Party Is Convinced With Human Rights.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Homer S. Cummings, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in a speech at the Brooklyn Academy of Music last night said that the Republican party was concerned principally with material things, while the Democrats concerned themselves with human rights.

He charged that the Republican party was unable to "carry its suggested reforms" into effect because it "is filled with people of enormous influence who are using the party for private purposes."

"They were unsuccessful in 1912," he continued, "because they had persistently served special interests which came to odds with each other."

"I am not impressed with the frequent statement of the Republicans that they bring prosperity. Most of the prosperity we enjoy today is the result of a reform in currency and the establishment of the Federal Reserve System which was effected by the work of the Wilson administration."

HURT CHASING NEGRO WHO GRABBED GIRL

Abraham Schwartz Hit by Service Car — Youth Captured by Policemen.

Abraham S. Schwartz, a dress designer with a shop at 902 Washington avenue, was hit by an automobile and seriously hurt this morning when he chased a Negro youth who had seized a girl employee of Schwartz in the hallway leading to his shop. The Negro was captured by policemen.

Miss Betty Glickman, 16 years old, 5895 Cote Brillante avenue, had ascended the stairway to the second-floor landing when she met the Negro who tried to drag her into a room. Hearing her cries, Schwartz ran out.

The Negro broke away and dashed from the building, pursued by Schwartz. They ran east on Washington avenue to Ninth street, where Schwartz caught the Negro and threw him to the sidewalk. They fought, and the Negro, rising to his feet, suddenly pushed Schwartz into the street. He staggered in front of a service car and was knocked down.

The Negro fled north on Ninth street, pursued by Traffic Police. Officer Rennekamp, Traffic Checker Paul and Patrolman Schuerman. The chase led north to Lucas avenue and west to an alley between Tenth and Eleventh streets, where the Negro was caught. The policemen had fired six shots.

Schwartz, who is 45 years old and lives at 4707 Vernon avenue, was taken to the City Hospital suffering with internal injuries. The Negro said he was Alfonso Smith, 19, 410 North Levee. He insisted he was looking for work in the building when Schwartz suddenly attacked him. Miss Glickman, who was uninjured, identified Smith as her assailant.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always stick for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.
April 10, 1907.

THE ELECTION

(Excerpts from hundreds of letters received from Post-Dispatch readers on the campaign.)

I AM for Gov. Smith because he is an outstanding character of truth and honesty, and because Uncle Sam is pointing an accusing finger toward the archives in Washington. Rebuke the traitors.

18TH WAR MOTHER.

WE want a business man for President, a man who has world wide experience, capable of handling large affairs at home and abroad. Measured by these qualifications, the Republican candidate is the better presidential timber.

H. F. RAITH.

HOOPER is just like Coolidge, and Coolidge never had an original idea during the past glorious seven and a half years.

J. E. HILL.

WILL you call the attention of your readers to an editorial in the Saturday Evening Post of Oct. 27 entitled "Static?" The Democratic candidate for the Presidency has made of his party platform a scrap of paper.

E. H. MONROE.

THOUSANDS of Catholics voted for Harry B. Hawes in 1924 against Mike Hart, who happens to be a Catholic and also a Knight of Columbus because they thought Mr. Hawes was more fitted for the position.

A VOTER.

I HAD quite a number of people at my home in the county celebrating my father's eighty-sixth birthday. And some one suggested to tune in on Reed. So we did, but we were all surprised to hear such language as he used. He sure made Gov. Smith lose many a vote by his talk at Chicago.

DEMOCRAT UP TO NOW.

WHEN Mr. Hoover was Food Administrator we ate corn bread, but if he gets to be President we will have to eat the corn shucks.

ANOTHER VOTE FOR AL SMITH.

AN unusual speech was heard by the radio audience—a speech made by Mr. Isaac Lionberger. Gov. Smith has many able speakers, but he is particularly fortunate to enlist the support of a man who expresses his convictions in a spirit of broad-minded liberalism, couched in all the elegance that Anglo-Saxon affords.

C.

YOU can place Indiana in the doubtful column. I never saw such a change in the last week.

WINSLOW, Ind. W. J. RICHARDSON.

CONGRESSMAN BARTHOLOMEW understands, is through with politics and is free to say what he pleases without a chance of losing votes. It seems a poor return that a man supported by Republicans for 22 years should turn against his staunch supporters.

Blackjack, Mo. ALBERT FOSTER.

AN interesting phase of the present campaign concerns relatives of former Presidents who are supporting Gov. Smith. These include: Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Daniel Sargent, Boston, born Louise Coolidge, and her husband, Professor Sargent of Harvard; Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant Jr.; Mrs. James Blaine Walker of New York; daughter of Benjamin Harrison, and her husband, a grand-nephew of James G. Blaine; Mrs. Lucy Gephrey of "Marmion," great-granddaughter of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of President Washington; Thomas Jefferson Ruffin and Thomas Henry Ruffin; Andrew Johnson Stover; Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, son of President Tyler; Mrs. Bessie M. Safford, daughter-in-law of Andrew Johnson; Frank Polk, of President Polk's family.

SCANNELL O'NEILL.

Belleville.

AFTER reading your straight-forward editorials of facts and truth, I feel that it is my duty to congratulate you on your stand in the campaign.

DAN.

SHALL we again entrust the reins of government to the party and the leaders who have miserably failed to enforce the laws, even including theft and bribery in high places? Or shall we entrust the reins of government to the man who is known to be a friend of humanity, with the same yearning for the welfare of man that the immortal Lincoln had, and who—attested to even by his enemies—is honest to the core?

SAMUEL T. LARKIN.

THE Democrats have not asked the preachers or priests to plead their cause in church as did the Republican party through the medium of Mabel Walker Willebrandt speaking to the Methodist preachers in Ohio.

THE ZEPPELIN'S E.PIC FLIGHT.

The Germans have reason to be proud of the achievement of the Graf Zeppelin, the great dirigible of German design and construction, with a German commander and crew, which made the round trip between Friedrichshafen and Lakehurst. It was an epic flight. It was the first round-trip flight. It was the first flight with passengers, mail and freight.

The Graf Zeppelin broke the record on its return trip. It was in the air 71 hours and 43 minutes, but about two hours of that time was spent cruising around Friedrichshafen, waiting for daylight before making a landing. Altogether, on its return trip, it sailed 16,000 miles. The flight of the Graf Zeppelin proved the feasibility of Trans-Atlantic commercial transportation, in both good and bad weather. It was fortunate as a proof of the dirigible's airworthiness that the Graf Zeppelin encountered two severe storms, one on its flight coming across and one on its return. The storm on its flight west was an exceedingly severe test. One of the stabilizing fins was damaged. It was temporarily repaired in midocean, and despite this damage it continued its flight to its destination at Lakehurst. The storm on its return flight drove the great airship many miles out of its course, but it broke the record.

It is due to German inventiveness, skill and persistence that the dirigible has been brought to the efficiency and safety demonstrated in the Graf Zeppelin, the largest dirigible which has been constructed. Germany leads the world in lighter-than-air craft construction and operation.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, has to his credit in addition to the flight of the Graf Zeppelin, the flight of the Los Angeles from Germany to the United States. Dr. Eckener declares that the flight and successful riding out of a storm proves that the construction of the Zeppelin is basically right. The dirigible, he says, needs greater engine power to combat high winds, but that its practicability as a means of commercial transportation has been fully demonstrated. There will be improvements, of course, but the usefulness of the dirigible for commercial transportation over the ocean has been proven beyond a doubt.

Readers of the Post-Dispatch have been fortunate in getting first-hand information concerning the experiences of Dr. Eckener and his associates on this great round-trip flight with passengers and freight. The story of the flight was fully covered in direct communications to the Post-Dispatch. It was one of three great flights in which the readers of the Post-Dispatch had first-hand information. They had it in the epic flight—the first flight to Europe—by Lieutenant Commander Albert C. Read, in 1919, on the seaplane NC-4, and in the story of Commander Richard Byrd of his great flight from Kingsbay, Spitzbergen, around the North Pole and return, in 1926.

Reading the stories of these pioneers of the air, we know that this age is as rich in courageous manhood and romantic adventure as any age in history. In our romances of adventure the man is linked with the machine. We have in the perfected machine an advantage over all previous ages.

AN UNFORTUNATE OMISSION.

It is a shock to St. Louis to be told by the Supreme Court of the State that the $2,000,000 in bonds voted by the people last Aug. 7 for a municipal airport are invalidated by neglect to revise the registration.

Nevertheless, there is no dissent among the Supreme Judges, and there can be none here. It is the business of the Election Commission in St. Louis to keep all elections regular, and this one should have been so. To have assumed that a registration made for the general primaries only two weeks before passage of the ordinance calling the special election on the bond issue would serve the purpose is not warranted by the law and cannot be held to have been anything better than a loose practice. The same thing happened with respect to a $1,000,000 bond issue for an airport at Kansas City. Both must vote on the bonds again, which will suggest to the inconvenienced public that the law as to special elections cannot be understood by the election commissions of either city or their corporate counsels. Otherwise such an expensive and awkward interruption could not have occurred.

There is but one thing to do. Judge Ragland's contention that failure to revise the registration before the election deprived unregistered voters of participation is unanswerable. It is not a sufficient defense that such persons must have been very few. The law cannot be so inexact. We will have to charge the omission to carelessness, go through another election, and know better next time.

The presidential campaign has restored their meal tickets to a good many people down South who have not had any since the Ku Klux movement subsided.

IMMIGRATION—A BOGUS ISSUE.

At Newark Gov. Smith was compelled to explain for the third or fourth time that he does not favor an increase in immigration. The rumor that, if he is elected, the country will swarm with immigrants from Europe has been one of the most persistent in the campaign, despite the fact that its absurdity is clearly shown by a glance at the Democratic platform and the candidate's speech of acceptance. This is what the latter document says on the subject:

While I stand squarely on our platform declaration that the laws which limit immigration must be preserved in full force and effect, I am heartily in favor of removing from the immigration law the harsh provision which separates families, and I am opposed to the principle of restriction based upon the figures of immigrant population contained in a census thirty-eight years old. I believe this is designed to discriminate against certain nationalities and is an unwise policy. It is in no way essential to a continuance of the restriction advocated in our platform.

There is nothing in this position to justify anyone in saying that Gov. Smith will inundate the country with immigrants. His position is identical, as a matter of fact, with Mr. Hoover's except for Smith's opposition to the use of the census of 1890 in determining quotas. What the effect would be of using a later census, Gov. Smith does not explain, but that is beside the point.

In view of the facts, it should not be necessary for a presidential candidate to spend valuable time on the platform defending himself from so unfounded a charge. Moreover, the Republican National Committee should not have permitted its speakers to trumpet forth this bogus issue. The offense has not been confined to speakers at ward meetings and at rallies in the country schoolhouse, either. None other than the ace of the Republican shock troops, Senator Borah, was guilty of the offense in his Nashville speech, if not elsewhere.

MR. HUGHES' ARGUMENT.

In a sense, Mr. Hughes' assertion that prohibition is a sham battle in this campaign is tantamount to saying that the League of Nations was a sham battle in the 1920 campaign. Mr. Hughes goes to great pains to show the difficulties confronting Smith, if, as President, he endeavored to carry out his program on prohibition. There is, of course, no end of difficulties. The probability of a dry Congress, for example, seems to dispose of any immediate change in the Volstead act, while the elaborate machinery that must be set in motion to change the Constitution makes unlikely any quick action there.

It is typical of Mr. Hughes' legalistic mind that he should base his argument so largely upon the legal difficulties involved. He might have taken the same attitude toward the League of Nations, pointing out that Cox, if elected, would be unable to do anything without the consent of the Senate. In fact, Mr. Hughes was one of thirty-one intellectuals who, in a round robin, created the astonishing theory that the best way to get into the League of Nations was to support Harding.

We do not think there is any doubt that the election of 1920 was a mandate from the people against the League of Nations. After that crushing 7,000,000 majority was recorded, all efforts to get this country to join the League were abandoned as a futile challenge to the wishes of the majority. By the same token, we do not think there is any doubt that the election of Smith would be construed as a mandate from the people that prohibition must go.

Mr. Hughes has not convinced the Post-Dispatch that prohibition is a sham battle, he has not convinced Senator Borah, who has declared it to be the paramount issue in the campaign, and he has not convinced the Anti-Saloon League, which is now broadcasting leaflets throughout the nation proclaiming an opposite opinion.

A SELF-MADE MAN!

It is related concerning Mr. "Purity" Jones, sentenced in Federal court to three years in prison for stealing a million dollars, that he is a self-made man. Without wishing to seem captious, one may be permitted to say that the characterization is intellectual and a little less than fair to the general run of self-made men.

As commonly used, the term connotes a certain worthiness, usually, but not necessarily, attended by material success. In the case of Mr. "Purity" Jones there is plenty of material success but not much worthiness, and the material success was won by practice of every unworthy device.

His progression from saloon keeper to soap peddler may indeed have been accomplished by his unaided efforts, with credit to him, but in his further rise from soap peddler to swindler he appears to have had the very significant assistance of other people's money, utilized without their knowledge or consent.

If Mr. "Purity" Jones had remained a poor but honest soap peddler, or even a respectable saloon keeper, he would have been better entitled to a place among worthy self-made men.

There is one particular, however, in which Mr. Jones has excelled where a man with greater early advantages might have failed. He has won the privilege of serving concurrently the nine sentences for the nine crimes to which he pleaded guilty. An instance, it would seem, of sheer ability in giving the appearance of mere peccadilloes to transactions which, in the case of a saloon keeper or a soap peddler, might have been looked upon as grave malefactions deserving weightier penalties.

A NEGLECTED POLL.

Singularly, nobody has thought to poll the Bill of Rights in the prohibition debate. We have accordingly supplied this omission, to find that five of the ten articles are enthusiastic for Smith. Their statements follow:

I—I am for Smith because the right of the people to petition the Government for redress only falls into the wastebasket of the Anti-Saloon League.

IV—For Smith because the people are no longer secure in either their persons or effects, while as to the guarantee against search and seizure without warrant the United States Supreme Court is upholding the prohibition enforcement force in such practices as wiretapping.

V—For Smith because the guarantee against double jeopardy is persistently violated under prohibition.

VI—I favor Smith because prohibition disregards the guarantee that accused persons shall always be tried in the vicinity of the crime.

VIII—I also am for Smith because excessive punishments are inflicted under prohibition and as greater efforts are made to enforce it these punishments will become more excessive.

The other articles were either not interested in the election or not voting.

WHAT OF THE OTHER 16,000,000?

The Literary Digest sent out 19,000,000 ballots. It had received up to this week 2,767,263 votes, and in the end it will apparently have got back about 3,000,000.

What of the other 16,000,000? Granting many of these did not reach the persons to whom they were addressed, there remain enough people who did not return the Digest ballot to warrant inquiry. Why did these people fail to vote? What have they in mind that they are unwilling to express until they get to the polls?

It goes without saying that half of such a great number of people would pay no attention to the Digest or any other such ballot. But that will not explain the great discrepancy between 3,000,000 and 19,000,000. What seems to have happened is that the Hoover people availed themselves gladly of the chance to say where they stand, realizing the advertising value of their expression. This would particularly be true of people who have a special interest in the election, as the prohibitionists and some others have. They represent a segment of the population that is not only articulate but is within the cultural purview of the Digest. These things are not so true of the elements thought to be for Smith. Some of these are practically inarticulate except at the polls. Many are foreign. The working people and the farmers are not as snappy at the mail box as are the organized drays and many of the church people.

Therefore, the Digest poll, though showing Hoover an easy winner, may be more truly indicative of a very close race, if not victory, for Smith. The accuracy of the same poll in 1924 might have been a coincidence. We shall know only when the 16,000,000 who did not return the Digest ballot go to the polls.

Judging from the vast increase in registration, it takes liquor and religion to awake people from their apathy toward public affairs.

Vanzetti and the Bridgewater Crime

Press attributes real significance to the confession of Frank Silva exonerating Vanzetti of the holdup at Bridgewater; new evidence has arisen to haunt those who insisted that Sacco and Vanzetti die for a crime which many believe they did not commit.

THE GHOST OF BANQUO.

From the New York World.

IN the current Outlook is published a collection of articles, statements and affidavits having to do with the connection of Bartolomeo Vanzetti with the Bridgewater case—the attempted robbery of a payroll truck at Bridgewater, Mass., on Dec. 24, 1919—a crime for which Vanzetti was tried, convicted and sentenced to prison before he came up for trial in the South Braintree case. This was the robbery of a payroll truck at South Braintree, Mass., on April 15, 1920, and the murder of one of the guards, a crime for which he and Nicola Sacco were tried, convicted and executed, the execution taking place in August, 1927.

The evidence here set forth makes dismal reading. For it establishes an overwhelming presumption that Vanzetti had nothing to do with the Bridgewater crime at all. The editors, with the assistance of able investigators, have obtained the confession of one man who says he took part in it; they have obtained the confession of another man who says he planned it but was unable to take part in it because he was in prison at the time it was committed; they have checked these confessions against the known circumstances and found them in agreement.

The celebrated case, then, rises from the grave to haunt all who were connected with it. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts now faces a reckoning. It can no more ignore these findings than it can ignore Judgment Day.

A CIRCUMSTANTIAL CHALLENGE.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

HERE is a substantial confession, with many details checked to the satisfaction of the several men whose stories the Outlook prints. Though it cannot be said to be proved, it does cast fresh doubt on the prosecution which led to the conviction and execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. Here is a very circumstantial challenge to the holdup case that was made out against Vanzetti on a charge that brought him a penalty of 15 years' imprisonment. Considering how the holdup and the murder cases were intertwined, considering the many other serious things shown about the conduct of the murder case, this is something that Massachusetts cannot ignore or belittle.

IT WILL NOT DOWN.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

WHEN Gov. Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts withstood every appeal in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti and allowed them to go to the electric chair he thought, in all probability, that treacherous case would end with their final death struggles. More than a year has passed since these men were executed, but far from having subsided, the case is still vibrant with life, the outcome is not yet decided. The Outlook now comes forward with what it claims to be new evidence proving the absolute innocence of Vanzetti and fastening the crime for which he died upon an alleged confessor.

This evidence may be conclusive or it may not, but at least it will serve to give new life to the very considerable doubt of the guilt of Sacco and Vanzetti which existed in the public mind at the time of their conviction and which abated no whit with their death. If it isn't proved that Massachusetts made a hideous mistake in exacting the lives of these men for a crime they did not commit, it at least proves a mistake of only a little less magnitude in adopting an inexorable attitude in the face of uncertainty and a very general feeling that intolerance and not justice was being served.

A MODERN GUY FAWKES CASE.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

IMPORTANT in its bearing on the question whether Bartolomeo Vanzetti and Nicola Sacco were convicted and executed for a crime of which they were wholly innocent, yet not directly concerned with the trial that followed the South Braintree murder, the Outlook article, which seems to be the outcome of patient and fair investigation of the conviction of Vanzetti of another crime, conducted jointly by Sacco and Francis Rufus Bellamy, editor of the Outlook, puts both Judge Thayer and Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts on the defensive again before the high court of public opinion.

The Vanzetti specter refuses to be suppressed. The issue might be said to be as moribund as the issue over the guilt or innocence of Guy Fawkes. But Guy Fawkes is still a bone of contention among the historians. If innocent Vanzetti and Sacco were victims of a gross miscarriage of justice, no matter what views they held on the proper nature of government, the belief that they were innocent is certainly pretty well fixed in the minds of some keen analysts of all available evidence.

CANNOT BE WHISTLED DOWN.

From the Springfield Republican.

THE Outlook this week presents itself to its readers with its cover proclaiming: Vanzetti Was Innocent.

Frank Silva Confesses Bridgewater Crime. The bulk of the magazine's space is devoted to the presentation of the new evidence which the Outlook has gathered from underworld sources to prove that Vanzetti was guiltless. This proof rests on the confession of a gunman and holdup man. The Republican has not had time to examine the Outlook story with the care and caution necessary in passing judgment on it. When this task has been performed more will be said, perhaps, in these columns about the latest developments in a celebrated case.

One thing may be said right away, however, concerning the Silva confession. It cannot be whistled down as something unworthy of consideration because it comes from a member of the criminal class. Nor will truth be suppressed in order to "have face" for high placed officials and dignitaries who assumed the responsibility for the refusal of as much clemency for Sacco and Vanzetti as would have substituted life imprisonment for the death penalty.

The Outlook's publication is annoying to those who insisted that Sacco and Vanzetti should die, when the death sentence might have been commuted to imprisonment for life. Yet it is an annoyance that must be endured.

Further Reflections on Utopia.

In that fair land, Utopia, of which the poet sings:
I wait with longing undiminished full of perfect things.
There only good are clever folk, and all sinners plain.
And should the talk be deadly dull, it grows the talker pain;
There stogy books are all the things that blurbing jackets say.
And each of us will speak the truth as honestly we can.
In that fair land, Utopia, no human ever turns.
So doubtless in Utopia the household budget works.

The budget in Utopia will balance to the cent.
Each simple entry plainly shows just how the money's spent.
We'll spend on each extravagance no more than what we should.
If we exceed the limit, then the budget makes it good.
In that expected, happy land, no debts will plague our soul.
We'll find in winter's chilling blasts that we allowed for coal;
Yet minding how in budgets the recurring payments fall,
I doubt if in Utopia we'll have the things at all.

While believing in our innocent way the prohibition is the big success that it is, we understand that of late the instructions forbidding the children to play in the cell are more explicit than ever.

Incurable optimist that we are, our latest explanation is that it is the music of the "popular" songs which is popular.

Fourteen is that extremely critical age at which the game is not a success unless all the players succeed in soiling or teasing their clothes.

What surprises us are not the technicalities of justice but the justice of technicalities.

Imaginary Conversations.
Party of the first part: How did you get the black eye?

Party of the second part: Asking the same fool question you just asked.

Ideals change as we grow older, and our present paragon of masculine grace and strength is not the man in the collar advertisements, but the one in the eyeglass advertisements.

Things are never so bad but that they might be worse; suppose that two people had to be papered in place of one.

If, as is frequently pointed out, women are the valuer sex, how is it we rise to inquire, that spats were invented when men also wore cotton socks?

We wonder how well those who pick their cigarettes blindfolded do in the dark room with the angular chair.

Of course we are not absolutely certain of the matter, but we have a well-founded suspicion that the poet does much better with the verses about the cherry warms than the grate fire if he happens to live in an apartment house.

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Fine Experience

UNDER THE YEW. By Robert Nichols. (Covici-Friede, N. Y.)

Most of what we have come to call literature is in reality a form of journalism. The fault is not in journalism, as such, but in the confusion of values involved. A professional reader may go on for weeks without keenly realizing to what extent journalism has displaced literature in the book business, since opportunities for comparison are fairly rare. Furthermore, there is much excellent journalism. Then some work of genuine literature will turn up—generally unannounced—and the reader is astonished again at the difference between the two forms of writing. It is not primarily a difference in the use of words; it is a profound difference in conception, a difference between the inner and the outer vision.

This astonishing difference is to be felt in reading "Under the Yew." No—it was nothing of an erotic nature that happened under the yew, as one might readily suppose. It is true that a man and a woman were there together, but the woman was a ragged old crone and she was at the point of death by starvation. Also the night was bitter cold and the man had just lost everything he had held dear, even his self-respect. Nevertheless something tremendous did happen under that yew tree.

The scene of this strangely beautiful tale is laid in eighteenth century England, and the style is intended to suggest that which was characteristic of the writing of the period. Consequently, the sentences are considerably longer than those we are accustomed to read in our wild hurry to get wherever we are going.

There is light in this little book. The author, Robert Nichols, is an Englishman.

FROM MAGIC TO SCIENCE. By Charles Singer. (Horace Liveright.)

This work is evidently not to be classed with the ink-spilling of the pseudo-scientific demagogues. It is an earnest and very valuable work by a distinguished British scientist, who has a great deal to tell of what he thinks, he thinks or wishes to appear to think, but of what he knows and of what we need to know. What he has here is a very readable and scholarly history of human reason from ancient times, when the universe was explained in terms of magic, to the present day. Though beginning with the "childhood of reason," Dr. Singer, unlike so many writers, does not assume that we have at last reached mature manhood in that respect.

"THE IMPATIENCE OF A LAYMAN." By Hugh A. Studdert Kennedy. (The Century Co.)

of London, inspired this interesting and thought-provoking attempt to give the religious world that which the "parson" said was greatly needed, namely, "a fresher, truer and larger version of the religion of Jesus Christ."

The most notable thing about this attempt is the author's tremendous emphasis on the idea that the reality of evil must be denied. He sums up all the sufferings, wrongs, treacheries and crimes of mankind, and the outrages nature inflicts upon man and beast, as illusion. Replying to a critic who says: "To maintain the thesis of your argument you must either deny the sure-enoughness of the wounded, diseased, suffering brute, or else affirm that the man's two-plus-two-is-five thinking is responsible for every pain and pang of every living creature from the dawn of creation to this moment's fall of a sparrow," Mr. Kennedy says that is exactly what he does affirm. But he qualifies the denial of evil's reality by saying that it is from the point of view of Principle, God, infinite Good and of men in His image and likeness.

The book is put forth as an incentive to joyous living, a work of "manly optimism and amazing common sense." Some of the chapters bear out this description. But if the joyous living is based on a complete denial that life is a tragic dualism, a constant fight between good and evil, how can the charge of Epicureanism, in its worst sense, be avoided?

Life is not so simple. It is, as John Cowper Powys insists, a "complex vision," which, without the opposites of love and malice would not be life. Let us by all means minimize evil, know it as temporal, unreal from the standpoint of eternity, but as an actuality which, at least in this existence, affords mankind an opportunity for sympathy and heroism. Shouting a denial from the housetops may induce an unthinking optimism in some. But, at the next moment, the facts of life will surely confound them. H. M. W.

SCARLET SISTER MARY. By Julia Peterkin. (Bobbs-Merrill.)

When Mary, "a slender, darting, high-spirited girl" married July, "the wildest young buck in the quarters," people said that no good would come of it. When July, in the pride of his manhood left her, Mary buried her love and sinned shamelessly. But nothing degraded her; nothing embittered her. When July finally ended his twenty-year spree and came home, Mary, with the old love shaking her soul, could look him in the eye and say, "If you was to come some cold and stiff in a box, I could look at you same as a stranger and not a water wouldn't dream out my eye."

One finds the same simplicity and appeal in this new novel that were evident in the author's earlier book "Black April." R. A. S.

Nominee to Make Final Appeal by Radio Monday Night.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith is confident the crowds that have cheered him from the Atlantic seaboard to the Rocky Mountains can mean only victory.

"It is in the air," he said yesterday to press correspondents. "Were you over in Jersey last night?" the nominee asked a correspondent.

There was something doing over there, wasn't there?" he went on. "It's in the air. It is the same all over."

The second speech will be in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and the third, which will be his final appeal to the voters, will be delivered Monday night from a radio studio to which only democratic leaders, personal friends of the nominee and the press will be admitted.

DEDICATION SERVICES AT TUTTLE MEMORIAL

Bishop Johnson Presides at Program in New Building at 13th and Locust.

The Bishop Tuttle Memorial, adjoining Christ Church Cathedral at Thirteenth and Locust streets, was dedicated last night at services in the Montgomery Schuyler Memorial Auditorium in the new building. Bishop Frederick F. Johnson presided.

The Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor of the Second Presbyterian Church declared the building could serve as a true memorial to Bishop Tuttle, lover of mankind, only if it were used as a great downtown center where men of all faiths might gather outside the barriers of intolerance.

Bishop Johnson offered thanks for the lives and works of Bishop Tuttle and Dean Schuyler. He, too, characterized the building as a community enterprise, pointing out that funds for its erection were raised by men of many religious faiths united in a common love for Bishop Tuttle.

Dean William Scarlett presented Canon C. E. Remick of the Cathedral, who yesterday celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his work there, a check for $2500 on behalf of the congregation. New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.

Edwin H. Steedman Shows Movies Of His Big Game Hunt in Africa

Entertains University Club Members With Films of Wild Life—Wife and Daughter
With Him on Trip.

Three hundred fifty members of the University Club last night applauded a three-reel thriller of wild life in Africa as photographed by Edwin H. Steedman of 32 Westmoreland place, who recently returned from a big game hunt with Mrs. Steedman and their debutante daughter, Miss Almira, one of the special Velled Prophet maids this year.

Packed into the fifteenth floor dining room of the club, following a dinner, the audience watched harrowing scenes of lions, kangaroos, weirdly loping on ill-assorted pairs of legs, black-winged vultures tearing to pieces a buffalo carcass, strange awkward-legged storks running through tall grass.

Introduced by Dr. Borden S. Veeder, with whom he once hunted this year.

Kadiak bears in Alaska. Steedman briefly described the technique employed in filming the African fauna.

"With our motor trucks," Steedman said, "we were able to get quite close to game. In photographing lions, because of possible danger, we set a limit of 40 yards. It is possible that we might have got much closer. The lion is not in the least frightened by a motor truck, but if a human being descends from the vehicle, the lion becomes apprehensive at once."

A Lioness Is Aroused.
One remarkable series of views began with a lioness asleep in a grass covert. The motor truck on this occasion obviously ignored the 40-yard limit and the lioness, filmed from a distance of 15 feet or less, yawned and the face of the camera, became suddenly aware of the vehicle carrying the photographer, and indulged what must have been a blood-curdling roar. The animal, her temper none too good at being roused from sleep, padded away from the intruding truck, turning from time to time to grimace her opinion of photographers.

One magnificent lion, disturbed at his kill by the chugging motor, retreated speculatively, rather than fearfully from the advance of the camera, and finally, with dexterous legs, climbed a tree and seemed to dare the photographer's truck to advance. The truck didn't and the lion worriedly jumped from his perch and ran.

The giraffe shots were superb and drew much applause. Something between a three-gaited horse and a small sized diploterus, the grotesque animals munched leaves 30 feet above terra, pranced effishly with swaying 10-foot necks. The forelegs of the giraffe are longer, by two or three feet, than his hind legs, and when the animal canter, it thrusts its narrow head several yards beyond its body. The effect is fantastic, a breath of the mesozoic, startling for persons who have seen giraffes only in cages.

The Original Black Bottom.
Other shots showed the great buster, a large bird, speeding over the African prairie; stupid ostriches, pausing in flight to stick their heads in the dirt; a massive two-horned rhinoceros; antelope and waterbuck in abundance (at this point, University Club hunters whose forays have been confined to the American scene, sighed); zebras with flashing stripes, blunt-nosed wart-hogs, water buffaloes, white-bearded gnus, African wild dogs, fennec foxes and dainty stepping gazelles. Equally interesting with the animal pictures, were the reels in which African matrons, loaded with necklaces, their skulls clean-shaven and glistening like black pool balls, engaged in tribal dances proving conclusively that the Black Bottom originated neither in Harlem nor in Birmingham, but in Africa.

BIPARTISAN TICKET PRESENTED IN COUNTY

Taxpayers' League Urges Support of Five Republicans and Four Democrats.

Duplicating its primary election strategy of a last-minute announcement of its ticket and thorough distribution of its sample ballots and arguments, the St. Louis County Taxpayers' League came out today in support of a bipartisan ticket for county offices. It is throwing its strength to five Republicans and four Democrats. The league ticket follows:

Jerry Mulloy, Republican, Circuit Judge, incumbent.
Julius R. Nolte, Republican, Circuit Judge.

Thomas J. Leonard, Democrat, County Judge, First District.
George H. Rott, Republican, County Judge, Second District, incumbent.

Harry W. Castlen, Republican, Prosecuting Attorney.
S. C. Peterson, Democrat, Sheriff.

Edward W. Terry, Republican, Public Administrator.
Dr. John O'Connell, Democrat, Coroner.

George H. Skillman, Democrat, Constable, Central Township.

Officers of the league includes J. A. Jennings of Richmond Heights, president; Mrs. C. H. Elledge of Kenwood Springs, vice president; Gus Loeffel of Webster Groves, secretary, and George W. Baumhoff of Keyes Summit, a member of the present grand jury, chairman of the Executive Committee.

LITERARY DIGEST POLL FINAL GIVES SMITH FOUR STATES

Arkansas are "practically a stand-off," and should be in the Smith column. The six states thus conceded to Smith have 64 electoral votes, of a National total of 531.

In the other States, the Hoover leads shown are of substantial size, many of the votes being in a two-to-one or three-to-one ratio. Virginia shows 24,079 for Hoover to 15,870 for Smith; Florida, 19,022 for Hoover to 9,951 for Smith; and Texas, 52,864 for Hoover to 35,625 for Smith. Kansas, with 45,094 for Hoover to 12,154 for Smith, or 3.7 to 1 is the State which makes the most pronounced showing.

Final returns from New York City show 140,770 for Smith to 165,844 for Hoover. In two of the five boroughs of New York City, namely, Queens and Richmond, Hoover is well in the lead. Chicago shows 99,916 for Hoover to 71,510 for Smith, and Philadelphia shows 69,704 for Hoover to 48,429 for Smith.

Of Hoover's National total of 1,750,554, the number coming from those who voted the Democratic ticket in 1924 is 264,482. Of Smith's 957,795 total, 360,444 is from those who voted Republican in 1924. About one-sixth of the straw voters do not show how they voted in 1924.

The number of 1924 Republicans shown as having voted this year is 1,566,772, and Hoover's total is an increase of 183,812 over this. The total of 1924 Democrats shown as voting is 497,992, and Smith's total is a gain of 289,802 over that figure.

"The present huge polling list," the Digest says, "is the work of a number of years, founded originally on the telephone books of the country, expanded with elimination of duplications, by the lists of automobile owners, and in many places, by registration lists."

Three St. Louis Congressmen Seeking Re-Election Tuesday On Their Records in Office

Candidates Declare for Modification of Volstead Act—Each Incumbent Introduced Bills to That End at Last Session.

By the prohibition issue, all six candidates for Congress in St. Louis and St. Louis County have declared for modification of the Volstead act and the three incumbents, who are candidates for re-election, introduced bills in the last Congress to that end. The Congress, however, enacted no prohibition legislation.

For the information of voters at next Tuesday's election the Post-Dispatch publishes the following facts about the candidates:

TENTH DISTRICT.
Republican—Henry P. Niedringhaus is serving his first term in Congress. He was successor to Cleveland A. Newton, leader of the highways bloc and has followed Newton's footsteps in further development of inland waterways. He was a member of the important Rivers and Harbors Committee, an unusual distinction for a first-term member. Niedringhaus was instrumental in obtaining a recommendation for $1,500,000 for improvement of the Mississippi River between St. Louis and Grafton, Ill. He was active also in the passage of the Dennison barge line bill, which increased the capitalization of the Inland Waterways Corporation from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000.

On roll calls, Niedringhaus voted for the conference report for continued Government operation of Muscle Shoals, against the Norris resolution to abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress and against recommitment of the Boulder Dam bill, which, in effect, was a vote for the bill.

The Tenth District, established by a gerrymander to the most safely Republican district in Missouri, is the largest district in the United States in population—525,000. Because of his large constituency Niedringhaus has had much detail work in various government departments in behalf of individuals.

Niedringhaus is 64 years old, was born in St. Louis and during 1916 was Imperial Potentate of the Shriners of the United States and Canada. Lately his hobby has been work in behalf of the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children on Kingshighway.

Democrat: John R. Green, a lawyer, has held no public office. He was educated in the public schools of St. Louis, obtained a degree of bachelor of arts at Westminster College and was graduated from the Harvard law school, being admitted to the bar in 1915. He served as a second Lieutenant with the Thirty-fifth Infantry during the war. He is a member of the firm of Judson, Green and Henry.

His platform declarations have placed him behind Gov. Smith on the water power issue and farm relief. He has denounced religious intolerance and is for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT.
Democrat: John J. Cochran, incumbent, might be known as the indefatigable. He has attended every session of the House since his election and has responded to every roll call.

On important measures in the last session, he voted with the liberal group—for Federal government construction of Boulder Dam, for the Norris resolution to abolish the "lame duck" sessions of Congress, and for the conference report for the continued government operation of Muscle Shoals.

He is the author of Bill No. 1 in the Seventieth Congress, conferring upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh the Congressional Medal. He introduced, also, the bill that enabled Col. Lindbergh to accept the decorations of foreign governments.

Cochran was one of the hardest workers for the bill establishing a Federal narcotic prison hospital. He has given attention also to legislation for the relief of World War veterans, particularly the enlargement of the hospital at Excelsior Springs.

Single-handed, Cochran has embarked upon a fight against the indiscriminate establishment of toll bridges by promoters interested chiefly in profits through financing.

Though serving his first term, Cochran is no stranger to Washington. He was for many years secretary successively to United States Senator Stone, to Congressman William L. Igoe and to Senator Harry B. Hawes. During that time he has become skilled in cutting bureaucratic red tape and in getting things done in behalf of his constituents.

He has resided his entire life in the district from which he seeks re-election.

Republican: William Gray was Republican committeeman from the Twenty-sixth Ward at the time of the last mayoralty campaign. He supported Mayor Miller. He has lived in St. Louis for 17 years and is engaged in the housecleaning and contracting business. During the last three years he has held the city contract for keeping the glassware of the city electric street lights clean and for that work received $193,992. Recently he was sharp underbid for the contract for the next three years by the Welsbach company.

During his campaign Gray has said he would support an amendment to the Federal Constitution stipulating that the Constitution in future may be amended only by popular referendum.

TWELFTH DISTRICT.
Republican: L. C. Dyer, incumbent, has served continuously in Congress as the representative of the Twelfth District since 1911. The district contains a large Negro vote and the fact that his present opponent is a Negro has brought Dyer out onto the stump for the first time in several years. He is making speeches almost nightly.

In the last Congress Dyer voted with almost unbroken regularity with the Old Guard Republicans. He was against Government operation of Muscle Shoals, against the abolishment of "lame duck" sessions, but voted against a recommitment of the Boulder Dam bill, which might be interpreted as a vote for Government construction of that project.

He was acting chairman throughout the session of the highly important judiciary committee, which consumed most of his time. In that capacity he prevented the passage of the Shipstead-La Guardia anti-injunction bill sponsored by the labor unions. He obtained, by vigorous last-minute action, the passage of a bill raising the pay of United States Judges in China to that of similar Judges in this country.

In other sessions Dyer was author of the national automobile theft law, making it an offense against the United States to transport a stolen automobile from one State to another, which has resulted in numerous convictions; a similar law making it a felony to transport stolen goods from one State to another, and a law affecting the District of Columbia defining usurious loans, which has been copied by many States.

Through the opposition of a Southern Democratic filibuster, his attempt to have a law punishing participation in lynchings failed of passage.

Democrat: Joseph L. McLe-more, a young Negro lawyer, served as an elevator boy in the employ of the Federal Government in Washington to earn money to attend Howard University Law School there and later completed his law course at New York University. He served during the war with the 23rd Field Signal Battalion.

Hoover was the 1 to 5 favorite in the betting odds here on the presidential election today, as the result of heavy betting by his supporters, while Gov. Smith became the favorite to carry New York and Massachusetts, according to Tom Kearney, local betting commissioner.

Kearney said he changed the Hoover odds, which had been 1 to 4 for a week, because of a large individual bet on the Republican candidate and numerous smaller bets. To win $1, the Hoover bettor must place .25. The Smith bettor can bet $1 on the chance of winning $3 more, the odds being 3 to 1 against Smith instead of 3 1/2 to 1 as they were previously.

An analysis of Kearney's table of betting odds state by state shows that Hoover is the favorite in 28 states with 277 electoral votes and Smith the favorite in 14 states with 202 electoral votes. In six states, with 52 votes, the odds are 4 to 5 against both candidates. If the result of the election followed the betting odds and Smith carried the six states in the "even money" class, he would have 254 electoral votes against Hoover's 277. A minimum of 266 votes is necessary for election.

An influx of Smith money resulted in the change in the odds on Massachusetts and New York which were 4 to 5 against either candidate. Today Kearney quoted 7 to 10 against Smith and even money against Hoover on both states. The Smith supporter must bet $10 on the chance of winning $7.

In the race for United States Senator from Missouri, Kearney quoted 1 to 3 against Charles M. Hay, Democrat, and 2 to 1 against Roscoe C. Patterson, Republican, for Governor of Missouri, 4 to 5 against either candidate. The odds are 1 to 4 against Smith carrying St. Louis and 2 1/2 to 1 against Hoover winning here. Kearney has commissions to place $5000 or any part, even money, that Smith carries St. Louis; $5000 to $2000, or any part, that Hoover carries Illinois; and $5000 to $2000, or any part, that Hoover carries Pennsylvania.

Panama Would Honor Roosevelt. By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, Nov. 2.—A bill to honor Theodore Roosevelt by naming a public square after him and electing his statue in it has been presented to the national Congress. The measure was sponsored by Eduardo Chiari, a brother of former President Chiari. Funds for the statue would be raised by public subscription. Passage of the bill seemed to be assured since 25 of the 46 members of Congress subscribed to it before it was presented.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never again with excess acid in the stomach. Go learn—now—why this remedy is supreme.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Prescribed by physicians for 50 years in excess of acids. 25c and 50c a bottle. Any drug store.

EDISON DISAPPROVES WATER POWER ISSUE

Hydro-Electric Energy Too Far Removed to Aid Bulk of People, He Says.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Thomas A. Edison, in a statement through the Engineers' National Hoover Committee, differed last night with those who would make water power a political issue.

When water power is analyzed "with even the barest knowledge of engineering," he asserted, "it must be removed from among political controversies."

"Water power seems to have been adopted as the shibboleth of politics in this campaign," he said, "and the public is at a loss to know what it is all about."

Asserting that coal mined to date is less than 1 per cent of the available supply, he contended that when the supply was exhausted water power would be inadequate to meet the demand for electric energy and posterity then would have to develop substitutes.

"The cost of developing water power in the Sierra Mountains and transmitting it to the cities on the seaboard has become so great that it is now cheaper and more satisfactory to develop the electricity by steam in the center of the load district," he said.

"Moreover, by no stretch of the imagination can the inhabitants of Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Delaware, Maryland, Florida, Mississippi or Louisiana, for example, enjoy any material advantage from water power, because these states possess no undeveloped water power of any consequence."

"If experienced persons engaged in the development of power find it unprofitable to develop hydroelectric situations, it is logical that the Government will possess any more successful executives than the industry itself has developed."

Edison's statement was endorsed, the engineers' committee said, by Gano Dunn, former president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers; Edward R. Wells, consulting steam engineer and member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and William McClellan, former president of the Institute of Electrical Engineers, in a joint statement.

Helen Taft's Husband for Smith. SWARTHMORE, Pa., Nov. 2.—Dr. Frederick J. Manning, son-in-law of former President Taft and professor of history at Swarthmore College, last night announced that he would vote for Gov. Smith. Dr. Manning, who is the husband of the former Helen Taft, made the announcement at the close of a political debate of faculty members at the college.

HUGHES DENIES CABINET DECIDED ON OIL LEASES

Declares He Knew Nothing About Them and Same Can Be Said for Coolidge and Hoover.

G. O. P. VICTORY BEST INSURANCE

Speaker Asserts Nominee's Farm Relief and Water Power Policies Are Sound and Workable.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Charles Evans Hughes, speaking last night in Brooklyn, hailed Herbert Hoover as "the apostle of co-operation" and "an engineer of progress," and asserted that "Republican success on election day is the best insurance policy we can write."

Quoting liberally from Hoover's writings and from the campaign speeches of Gov. Smith, the former Secretary of State said this election "is a choice between two men."

"I have not disparaged the ability or achievements of Gov. Smith," he said, "but as between Smith and Hoover, I prefer Hoover."

Condemning campaigners' attacks on Hoover's Americanism, he declared: "Any intelligent person who attempts to deny his Americanism deserves the scorn and contempt of all fair-minded persons. As a candidate for the chief magistracy of the nation, he stands out conspicuously superior. His rejection would be a national calamity."

Individual Opportunity Program.
"The keynote of Mr. Hoover's program is individual opportunity as opposed to unnecessary governmental control. His purpose, in his own words, is: 'To build in this nation a human society, not an economic system. We wish to increase the efficiency and productivity of our nation, but its final purpose is happier homes.'"

"It is in the light of the necessity of conserving the freedom of honest enterprise that Mr. Hoover deals with the fundamental needs of labor. * * * The real protection of labor is continuous employment. * * * That he finds to be a problem of national concern, and he has shown that it is one which government may aid in solving."

Quoting Gov. Smith's definition of a "stand-patter" as "a man who did not want to take a chance on anything," Hughes said:

"Mr. Hoover is not a stand-patter. He is a builder, an engineer of progress. * * * But he is not willing to gamble with the nation's future."

"I believe it is the American taxpayer * * * the business man, who sees no reason for taking a chance * * * with the uncertainties of Democratic policies, who knows that confidence is an essential psychological factor in prosperity."

OK's Hoover's tariff policies and questioned Gov. Smith's ability to force his own tariff views upon a hostile Congress.

"In tariff matters," Hughes said, "it is not simply actual statements that count, but agitation and uncertainties which disturb confidence and vex business."

Similarly, Hughes dealt with Hoover's farm relief and water power policies, quoting from the speeches of both candidates to illustrate his contention that Hoover's views on both issues are "sound and workable."

Government the individual's servant, not his master. * * * It is on this view that he is absolutely opposed to the unwarrantable extension of bureaucratic government. * * *

For Regulation in Public's Interest.
"In his activities he has thrown a welcome light upon departmental aims and practices he believes in the importance of regulation in the public interest. * * * But he desires * * * methods to establish without governmental dictation a more efficient production." Hoover's view of international peace, Hughes said, is not "simply in the laying down of the arms of nations." "International peace must be followed by industrial peace as the essential condition of progress in democracy. His measure of our National prosperity is 'the measure that we may risk through a change in present policies.'"

The nominee's farm relief policy, Hughes said, proposes assistance by the Government, but control of the relief agencies by the farmers themselves. There is no controversy, he said, between Gov. Smith and Hoover on "retention of Government ownership of water power sites owned by the State or the Federal Government."

"The test comes," he said, "in operation. . . . If there is any question of importance presented on this subject, it is whether the principle (of Government ownership and private operation) shall be abandoned and the National and the State shall go into the business of generating, distributing and selling electric power."

Worker Hurt in Cave-in Dies.

John Salem, 60 years old, 218 South Fourth street, died yesterday at City Hospital of fractures of both legs and internal injuries suffered Sept. 18 when heavy traffic caused the collapse of the side of an excavation for a new building at 3031 Park avenue in which he was working.

HOTTER ELECTION FIGHT IN NEW YORK STATE THAN EVER

Other Considerations Than Large Electoral Vote Affect Campaigns of Both Parties There.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Driven by considerations of the most compelling character, the battalions of Smith and Hoover are contesting hand-to-hand for the State of New York.

The magnitude of the struggle is not gauged alone by the preponderant weight of the State's 45 electoral votes, important as that factor is in the calculations of both candidates. Although this is the largest single bloc in the electoral college, and more than one-sixth of the number needed to elect a President, there are added reasons why New York is receiving a disproportionate share of attention in this particular campaign.

One of these lies in the fact that New York is the home State of Gov. Smith. Both from the standpoint of local and personal pride, and for its effect on the Governor's political future, his followers here have been fired by a special determination to demonstrate that he can carry the State as a presidential nominee. Just as he has four times out of five for the Governorship. Conversely, his opponents are determined to strike a blow at his leadership by taking his own State for Hoover.

Quiet Work Is Important.
The politics now prevalent in this State is the kind that penetrates to the marrow. Whatever outward agitation there may have been—and there was and is plenty of it—is not to be compared to the work of quiet organization which has gone on ever since the national conventions, from one end of the State to the other.

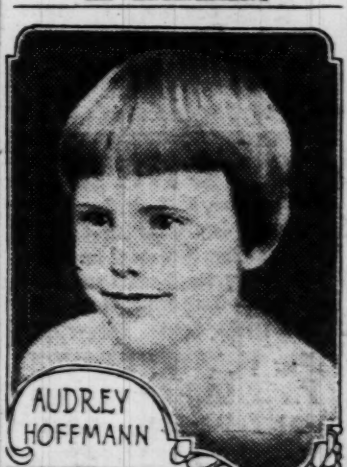

For the most part, this work on the side of the Democrats has centered in New York City and in the larger cities upstate.

In all of his campaigns for the Governorship, the city vote has been the great rock of Smith's strength. The Tammany Hall organization in the metropolis has rolled up tremendous majorities for him, and in nearly every election he has run ahead of his ticket in such normally Republican upstate cities as Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse. The cities, and especially New York City, are the centers of the wet sentiment of the State, and the home of those foreign groups whose votes have been counted for Smith in great numbers in all his campaigns.

The Republicans on the other hand, have organized upstate on a scale unequalled in any previous campaign. They have been especially active among the women voters. Thousands of Republican women have had a part in a house-to-house canvass designed to bring out every available vote for Hoover.

It can only be conjectured in what degree this quiet work of organization may be responsible

Missouri Girl in Health Test

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in Missouri, are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Missouri mother, Mrs. C. Hoffmann, 1936 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, says: "Audrey is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her rosy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body, and she stands at the top in every health test."

"Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since her birth to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments, and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.

for the increase of nearly a million in this year's registration of voters. Both parties claim an advantage under the new registration figures, which show that 2,029,514 are eligible to vote in New York City, and 2,855,762 in the remainder of the State. The increase over 1924 amounted to 529,869 in New York City and 467,753 upstate.

On the basis of these figures, the Republicans say they will hold Smith's New York City majority within such limits that Hoover's margin upstate will overturn it, with plenty to spare. Taking the same figures, the Democrats predict a 600,000 plurality for Smith in the city, and declare Hoover will be far short of that many in the rest of the State.

Intermixed in some degree with the dispute as between Hoover and Smith is a State campaign of considerable warmth between Smith's close political ally, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for Governor, and Albert Ottinger, his Republican opponent.

TEXAN SUES WHEN HIS CATTLE ARE KILLED AS TUBERCULAR

Beaumont Defendant in Suit in Which Correctness of Diagnosis Is Questioned.

By the Associated Press.
BEAUMONT, Tex. — The city of Beaumont has been sued for $6-54.25 damages by T. T. Gorman, dairyman, because of the condemnation and slaughter of 15 dairy cows declared to be tubercular.
Tests made by the veterinarian showed the animals to be infected with tuberculosis, and the city gave the dairyman the privilege of having them slaughtered or placed under quarantine. He chose the former, and was paid the beef value.

His suit is based on the contention that he resides outside the corporate limits, that the city had no jurisdiction and that tests made by Texas A. and M. College showed the animals were not infected.

MEDALS AWARDED WAR HEROES

D. S. C. for Wyoming Officer, Silver Star for Ex-Sergeant. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded to Willard H. Marshall, Sheridan, Wyo., former Second Lieutenant of Engineers, and the silver star citation to Daniel F. Lumba, St. Johnsbury, Vt., former Sergeant in the 33d Division, for extraordinary courage in World War engagements. Marshall was a Sergeant in Co. B, Second Engineers in the Second Division, and in command of a section of engineers constructing a bridge across the Meuse River when enemy fire wrecked it. Marshall continued the work, however, and built a bridge which enabled infantry to cross to meet the enemy. Lumba as a member of Co. A, 105th Ammunition Train, of the 33d Division, was credited with rescuing three men when an ammunition dump exploded.

HENRY J. ALLEN ANSWERS RASKOB ON CHURCH ISSUE

Publicity Director Calls
Charge That Republicans Brought Religion Into Campaign a 'Frameup.'

ASSERTS EVIDENCE WAS MANUFACTURED

Declares Democratic Campaign Has Sunk From the "Sidewalks to the Sewers of New York."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Asserting that "the Tammany campaign in its closing hours has sunk from the sidewalks to the sewers of New York," Henry J. Allen, director of Republican publicity, has accused Chairman John J. Raskob and the Democratic National Committee of "manufacturing evidence" to support the charge that attacks upon Gov. Alfred E. Smith because of his religion may be traced to Republican campaign leaders.

In a statement issued today, Allen denounced as a suspected "frame-up" the set of documents made public by Raskob as part of an open letter to Chairman
Work of the Republican National Committee, which the Democratic leader declared proved that his claims were true.

Moreover, Allen charged Raskob with "an obvious effort to make the widest use of bigotry in his own campaign while denouncing its pretended presence in the Republican campaign." He declared too, that Raskob has given tacit approval to attacks on Herbert Hoover because of his Quaker faith.

Case "Frame-up."
Referring to the documents made public by Raskob, Allen said all affidavits they contained were made upon the same day and that one man had denied making an affidavit which Raskob had attributed to him. "These considerations," Allen said, arouse "the suspicion that the whole case is a "frame-up." He characterized as "a mere mask to hide his own mud-guns" Raskob's early appeal for a clean campaign.

"All efforts to link the Republican party with the religious issue having failed because of the refusal of the Republican party to countenance the appeal to bigotry," Allen said, "the committee of Raskob has deliberately descended to the Tammany trick of manufacturing evidence for their own use."

Allen declared his party leaders had been able "to anticipate most of the Democratic mud-slinging by realizing that Raskob always uses reverse English on every statement," adding that whenever the Democratic chairman "has accused the Republicans of a trick, it has become a forewarning that the Democrats were about to undertake or were already undertaking that particular trick."

Democrats and Klan.
Allen asserted "the recent pretended meeting" between Klan and Republican leaders in New Jersey had been "easily traced to Democratic headquarters in Philadelphia," and that an "attack of the most vicious character" was launched by the Democratic Regional Committee at St. Louis upon Mr. Hoover's religion.

In the latter connection, he charged that "this Democratic committee, which is a part of Mr.
Raskob's organization, circulated thousands of copies of this attack" and that Raskob "approved the cowardly thing" by silence.

"There has never been in the history of American politics," Allen said, "an outburst of political bigotry such as has been in evidence under the auspices of the Tammany National Committee during the last days of this campaign."
Senators Reed, Robinson, Glass,
Caraway, Hanchey, Clarence Darrow and others have been speaking forth personal libel against the Republican candidate for President with shameless abandon and all of this with the direct encouragement of Chairman Raskob. * *
"Raskob spent thousands of dollars in the circulation of publications whose sole purpose has been to place the issue of intolerance and race hatred into the passionate-minded of the country. He has had the effrontery to do it continuously and designedly, wearing always a pious face."

IMPORTANT TECHNIQUE OF MEAT COOKERY

Flavor Improved and Digestibility Gained by Proper Method.

Meat is cooked to improve the flavor, to make it more digestible, by softening the meat fibers, and to destroy any injurious bacteria that may be present. The degree of heat used, and the length of time allowed for cooking, are the deciding factors in determining how well these aims are carried out.

The length of time that must be allowed to soften the meat fibers, or to cook the meat successfully, depends first on the cut and kind of meat used.

For example, a long, lean piece of meat, weighing four pounds, will cook in shorter time than a short, thick piece of meat cut from the same part of the animal and weighing the same amount. This is because, in the first instance, a larger surface is exposed to the heat, and the depth of the meat is such that the heat can penetrate to the inside more rapidly.

Meat that has a thick outside layer of fat takes longer to cook than a lean piece, because the heat takes longer to penetrate to the center. When a longer, slower cooking process is used the interior of the meat is cooked much more evenly than if it is cooked for a shorter time at a higher temperature.

The meat of young animals is more tender than that of more mature ones and generally cooks in a shorter time. Spring lamb, broiling chickens, suckling pigs are good examples of this.

In roasting meat of any kind best results are obtained if the outside is seared quickly in a very hot oven, then the heat reduced and the meat cooked more slowly until done. Searing—that gray coating that comes on meat when strong heat is applied to it—seals the cut ends of the meat fibers and keeps the juices from running out.

Veal and pork, when cooked in this manner, allowing 30 minutes for each pound of meat after searing, and roasting at a temperature of 350 degrees, will be as tender as young chicken and as readily digested.

Smoked meats—Tongue, ham, smoked tenderloin, etc.—should be soaked overnight in cold water if very dry. For cooking, cover with fresh cold water, heat quickly to the boiling point, cover closely, reduce the heat and cook just at the boiling point. Allow 30 minutes for each pound.

Apple Carrot Salad. Dice apples; arrange on a bed of water cross or lettuce. Sprinkle with grated carrot and serve with honey and lemon dressing.

Such a taste! Only the Mexican can really describe it!

Savory! Sabrosa!

A taste few Americans can describe. Only the Mexican with his bubbling adjectives—his lively gestures—can really tell you about the rich flavor found in this famous Chili Con Carne!

Mexican Chili Beans—big, plump and meaty, bursting with juicy tenderness! Selected beef—cut into the finest morsels! Then blended with a "bit" sauce of tiny chili peppers—a sauce which came from a secret recipe in old haciendas of Spanish grandees.

And there you have it—with a kick you can't forget—Libby's Chili Con Carne! Your grocer has it.

The Simplified Angel Food Cake

217 WOMEN BAKED

Without a Single Failure, First Attempt

Mixing Time Only 12 Minutes

With all her social obligations, Mrs. Harlan Ellard finds time to prove her baking skill by making this prize Angel Food Cake.

This Week's Prize "Kitchen-tested" Recipe

Yes—Angel Food Cake, too, has been simplified—amazingly. The recipe at right was tried by 217 women; with 217 perfect Angel Food Cakes the first attempt. Clip it out of the paper now. Tomorrow try it. You'll be astonished at results.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished.

"Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in a kitchen, at the mill, in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means a flour that acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes. Most flour varies greatly. Different sacks of other brands often act, as you know, entirely different in your oven. That's where over 80% of all baking disappointments come in.

Now special "Kitchen-tested" recipes, too, have been developed. The recipe then fits the flour exactly. And the flour fits the recipe exactly. So you get EXACT results every time. To use this combination is a revelation in easier, simpler baking. But you must use "Kitchen-tested" Flour.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. The words "Kitchen-tested" are on every sack. Get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

Cut out along this line and save—

RECIPE . . . Gold Medal Angel Food Cake

HOW TO STEAM PUDDINGS IN SMALL CUSTARD CUPS

If You Do Not Possess a Steamer Try This Method of Cooking Them.

Steamed puddings in custard cups can very easily be cooked on the top of the stove in fact this is by far the best method to use.

The best way is to fill greased cups half full with the pudding mixture, tie buttered brown paper or heavy waxed paper over the tops, then place them in a pan that has enough boiling water in it to come half way up on the custard cups.

Or better still, if you have an old pie plate punch it full of holes and place it upside down on the bottom of the sauce pan and put the custard cups on it. Then put the boiling water in to about one-half-inch up on the custard cups. Cover the pan closely and boil the puddings slowly.

You will probably have to add more water when the water is half cooked, as there is danger of the water boiling off long as hot water is added, not possibly hurt the puddings.

RAGOUT OF MUTTON

A Tasty Way of Preparing Meat for a Family Dinner.

Six cooked chops, two turnips, two onions, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, one-half pint stock.

Boiled breast of mutton, cut in squares and add to the ragout. This ragout may be served with green peas.

TIME IS GOOD FOR BODY BUILDING

Protein Which Is the Building Element of Food.

in mind that while gelatine is a very valuable food and is a building element, it cannot be depended upon to take the place of other protein foods, such as meat, for example. It is the fact that it spares the protein of meat and that when gelatine is used, less meat or milk or eggs are required.

Another of the chief services that gelatine renders in the diet is that it makes the curd formed in the stomach when cow's milk is process; what is left should be a rich thin syrup. Slow cooking develops the natural fruit sugars and very little sugar will be required. If, however, sugar is used, add it after the prunes are cooked while still hot enough to dissolve it.

You are invited to attend the free cooking school at Nugents every afternoon from 2 to 4 except Saturdays. Standard's Royal Patent Cake Flour used exclusively by Mrs. Margaret Davis, Domestic Science Expert, who bakes many good things and serves them free. A big fine cake is also given free. Come!

means that people of delicate digestion such as invalids and those who are unable to digest raw milk, are often able to use when a small amount of gelatine is added to it.

An interesting table has been set up showing the various ways in which gelatine may be used. Many of these are in the making of puddings, entries, jellies, broths and soups, icings, puddings, frozen mixtures, various confections.

Preparing diets for invalids, gelatine is often used for fever because it is so readily digested and so quickly assimilated. It is also used for diabetic patients and is excellent when malnutrition has to be dealt with.

Many children who do not like to take it when it is made into puddings or desserts by means of gelatine, and the gelatine in addition to making these more palatable, supplies a valuable growth material in itself.

WAY TO STEW PRUNES

Relatively Few Housewives Know There Is a Right Way. Wash prunes and cover with water and soak for several hours or over night if possible. Bring slowly to the simmering point in the same water in which they soaked. Cook slowly under boiling point until prunes are soft but not broken.

Hard cooking destroys the fine flavor and appearance of the fruit; at least half of the juice should be absorbed during the cooking.

Condensing gives Kwiksolv tremendous detergent power... yet hands stay soft and white... package lasts and lasts

JUST a tablespoonful of Kwiksolv in a pail of cleaning water will convince you of condensed soap's advantages as nothing we can say will do. Condensing, plus an automatic water-softener which we've included, gives this soap remarkable detergent power. Yet your hands stay soft and white with this new soap!

The idea of condensing soap is a triumph of Palmolive laboratories. Just as from condensed milk, 60% of water is removed, so now in soap-making, we remove 57% air, 20% moisture. The result is that one package holds the soap that otherwise would occupy 2 1/2 cartons. A 25¢ package of Kwiksolv weighs over 1 1/2 pounds. That is more, probably, than you've ever obtained for that price before. Think of the saving this soap brings!

Try Kwiksolv on stained and greasy clothes, on the soil line of cuffs and collars. Shake a little into the dishpan... see it instantly soak loose the food from dishes. For every household use, this new form of soap is a marked improvement.

Your wash comes out gleaming white. Dishes glisten as never before. Cleaning time is cut to minutes.

And Kwiksolv results cost you LESS than you now pay. The package lasts and lasts. No longer will you be out of soap "every few minutes." The nickels you save will buy other useful things. Put Kwiksolv on your grocery list today without fail.

Clothes much whiter. Kwiksolv soaks out the dirt. Clothes emerge fragrantly fresh, actually brightened.

Our laboratories regard Kwiksolv as their greatest triumph in soap-making.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Food That May Be Quickly Prepared and Set Away Until Mealtime.

Crab meat is good to use for an occasional salad or hot dish. Perhaps one of the nicest ways is when combined with jellied tomato in the form used for Sunday night's supper. The acid in the tomato aids in the digestion of the crab meat and adds greatly to the flavor. Shrimp, lobster or any flaked fish may be substituted for the crab meat if preferred.

Tomato and Crab Meat Salad.
Cook one quart canned tomato with one-half sliced onion, one-half cup chopped celery leaves, one teaspoon sugar, small piece of bay leaf, one teaspoon salt and two whole cloves, for 20 minutes. Soak three tablespoons of gelatin in one-half cup cold water for 10 minutes. Stir into the tomato mixture and strain. Let the mixture cool and when just beginning to thicken add two cups shredded crab meat, one cup diced celery and two tablespoons of finely shredded green pepper. Pour into individual molds, chill, turn out on lettuce and garnish with well seasoned mayonnaise and slices of hard-boiled egg.

Plum Trifle.
Cut 12 ripe red or purple plums in half and remove the pits. Put in a saucepan with one cup of water and cook slowly until tender for about 20 minutes. Then add two-thirds cup of sugar, stir constantly until the sugar is dissolved and remove from the fire. Arrange six slices of stale plain cake or sponge cake in a serving dish. Pour the hot plum juice over them. Let stand until cool and then chill. Add one and one-half cups custard sauce and garnish with the cooked plums. Serve very cold.

Eggs Florentine.
Mix two cups of freshly cooked or leftover spinach, finely chopped, with one cup of white sauce seasoned to taste with salt and pepper and add one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg and one teaspoon lemon juice. Fill individual buttered ramekin dishes two-thirds full with spinach. Follow out the center slightly and drop one egg in each dish. Sprinkle the egg with bread crumbs and grated cheese mixed together in equal proportions and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for eight to twelve minutes or until the egg is set. Serve hot.

Red Cabbage, Apple and Walnut Salad.
Shred a small head of red cabbage and let stand in cold salted water for one-half hour or longer. Then drain it and mix with two tart red apples, peeled, cored and cut in dice, one-half cup coarsely chopped walnuts and one-third cup well seasoned French dressing. When well mixed arrange on salad plates, garnish with a spoonful of thin mayonnaise and some finely chopped walnuts.

Baked Flaxen Haddie.
This should be covered with an equal mixture of milk and water and heated very slowly to the boiling point, then drained, dotted with butter, sprinkled very lightly with flour and baked in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for about thirty minutes. Serve with a cream sauce to which have been added one dozen oysters scalded and cut fine.

ROSY CHEEKED CRANBERRIES ARE AGAIN IN MARKET

A Supply of Cranberries on the Pantry Shelf Comes in Handy.

Cranberry sauce, which is a delicious and popular American dish, is easily prepared. All you need is one quart of cranberries, two cups of water and one and one-half to two cups of sugar.

Boil sugar and water five minutes; add cranberries and boil without stirring until the skins of the berries pop open. Five minutes is usually sufficient. When the popping stops, remove from the fire.

If a thinner sauce is desired, bring the water and sugar to a boil, add the berries and allow them to cook until they stop popping.

Cranberry sauce may be made in larger quantities and kept in the refrigerator for use, for it is a most convenient relish to have handy because it has many and various uses. For instance:

Serve cranberry sauce with all meats, fowl and game—hot or cold. It is a tasty relish and aids digestion.

It may be served with cream cheese and crackers with after-dinner coffee.

Cubes of cranberry jelly, which may be made out of cranberry sauce by adding more sugar and boiling it down, are nice for use as a garnish on grapefruit salad and fruit salads and fruit cups.

A Healthful Food.
Soup made with vegetable stock contains so rich a store of vitamins and body-regulating mineral salts that it may be looked upon both as a preventive of disease and as something that helps to keep the healthy child well.

FILLET MIGNON OR STEAK

The Masculine Palate is Tempted by Well-Cooked Beef. Have fillet of beef cut about two inches thick and Frenched (flattened with cleaver). Average three steaks to pound of fillet. These may be panbroiled or boiled. In frying pan place three tablespoons butter. When bubbling, put in slices of pineapple and fry until golden brown. Have one slice of pineapple for each service. Serve fillet on plate topped with browned slice of pineapple.

As fillet is tenderest cut of meat, it is also most expensive. Cost of this dish may be lessened without loss to flavor by using less expensive cuts. Round steak cooked as Swiss steak, omitting any sauce, is especially good prepared in this manner.

MR. HOOVER!

America Expects You to Answer These Questions Tonight!

Your campaign among the farmers has been based upon claims made in your behalf by the Republican Campaign Text Book and by Republican speakers, that you held farm prices UP during the war and in 1919. Did you not hold farm prices DOWN? Did you not say in a public address May 1, 1918:

"I agree with the contention of some farmers that they would be getting $5.00 and perhaps $10.00 a bushel for their wheat if it had not been for the restraints imposed by the government?" Did you not send a cablegram from Europe in April, 1919, which contains these statements?

"Referring to the necessity of maintaining control of wheat, in order to prevent higher prices before next harvest... Early in March... the War Trade Board freed the exportation of pork products... The price rose rapidly... In the month of March alone... We shall kill about one million pounds of inspected and country slaughtered hogs and the increased price will be fully 1½ cents net. This action was taken against the protest of my entire staff and myself... If the control of wheat were removed during the next two or three months in the face of the world situation, prices in this commodity would advance materially beyond the present level... I wish to repeat that unless some superior force intervenes, we intend to hold the price of wheat to the figures it has stood during the entire war under congressional guarantee."

"HOOVER"

Senator Reed Challenges You

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri in his address at Chicago, October 30, 1928, referred to this momentous cablegram and said: "He (Hoover) stands this day convicted out of his own mouth or by his own pen, with keeping the farmer from marketing his wheat in Europe and receiving $3.50 a bushel for it, and convicted of stubbornly refusing to allow the farmer to ship his grain abroad and receive this price."

"I CHALLENGE MR. HOOVER TO A DENIAL."

"I CHALLENGE THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE TO A DENIAL."

"The only decent thing for him to do is to now confess that he held the price of farm products down; that he did so deliberately and intentionally, and it is also his duty to repudiate the campaign book of the Republican Party and the declaration of his distinguished senatorial adherents."

Governor Smith Challenges You

Governor Alfred E. Smith in his address at Newark, N. J., October 31, 1928, said:

"Mr. Hoover is to speak at St. Louis on Friday night. I ask him then to make the statement definitely to the American farmer that he kept up the price of farm products during the war."

"I ask him further whether he will deny that such a cablegram ever came from him. If he denies it I will produce the cablegram. Nobody can dispose of the question as quickly as he can himself, and if he fails to make disposition of the question, the American farmer can make up his mind that the Republican spokesmen are fooling him."

Now, Mr. Hoover, do you, tonight, in the face of those challenges, dare to make the definite statement that you kept the price of farm products up during and after the war?

Republican Convention Rejected the Farm Plank

In the Republican Convention at Kansas City, 262 delegates voted for the minority report on agriculture. Here is the crux of this plank, supported by 262 delegates but rejected by the convention: "We recognize that, owing to the limited human control that can be exercised over forces that govern volume of farm production, it is impossible for farmers by concerted action to adjust their production to demand as accurately as can be done in other productive lines. We also recognize that our national policies of the past for expanding the agricultural plant of the nation has been the foundation of the nation's wealth and security. These factors are responsible for the existence of occasional or market surpluses in some of the most widely grown crops. This limits the adjustment of the tariff in equalizing the differences between the cost of production in this country and foreign competitors having lower living standards. The Republican party recognizes that this surplus problem of agriculture calls for national legislation to aid the farmers in its solution, since the number and wide distribution of the producers of many important crops make concerted action in handling surplus impossible. We do not favor legislation which attempts to correct this situation through direct or indirect treasury subsidies. We believe that in the operation undertaken to assist farmers this problem should be largely under the direction of Farmers' Co-operative Associations, with the use of only such federal powers as are necessary to distribute the costs and losses that may be incurred in dealing with agricultural surpluses, over each marketed unit of the crop whose producers are to be benefited by such assistance. We endorse the aim and principle of thus distributing the cost by concerted action over the commodity benefited, and pledge the efforts of the party to the perfection and enactment of a statute based on this principle which can receive general support and become a law."

Democratic Convention Endorses Surplus Control

The platform pledge adopted by the Democratic Conventions squares exactly with the plank rejected at Kansas City, and pledges party support to a program for the control and sale of agricultural surpluses as the method to make the tariff effective for agriculture, and approves the principle of spreading the costs of surplus control over the commodity benefited.

There are only two ways by which costs and losses in handling surpluses can be paid: (a) use of the public treasury, or (b) by spreading costs and losses over each marketed unit of the crops, the producers of which are benefited.

The Republican Party and you, Mr. Hoover, have rejected both.

The Republican Party in its convention at Kansas City repudiated the whole theory of spreading the costs over the commodity benefited.

At West Branch, in Tennessee, and in New York City you said there must be no subsidy, no tax, no fee.

In your address, Mr. Hoover, in New York City, October 22, 1928, you said: "Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we thrust government a long way into the businesses that give rise to these problems. In effect, they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution for the difficulties presented by their own creeds."

You are aware, Mr. Hoover, that Governor Lowden, Vice President Dawes, Senators Robinson and Curtis, and a majority of both houses of congress approved the theory of legislation expressed in the farm plank rejected by the Republican party.

Do you, Mr. Hoover, characterize all of the above men as socialists?

We challenge you to answer this question.

We assert there is no possible way by which the farmers can be given the benefit of the tariff on crops of which we produce surpluses except by the absorbing of the cost by the commodity itself, or by the public treasury.

Have you, Mr. Hoover, any third plan to suggest?

Do you recommend stabilization corporations, waterways, and increased tariff?

Is it not true that your theory of stabilization corporations could not possibly make the tariff work for agriculture without legislation making a provision for the payment of losses and costs?

In your acceptance speech referring to inland waterways you said: "There is no more vital method of farm relief." Will you tell your hearers tonight when, at the rate of progress made during the last Republican Administration, that method of relief, insofar as it would constitute relief, would confer any benefits on the American farmer?

What have you done, Mr. Hoover, during the past five years to secure the increased tariff on farm imports which you now recommend as one form of farm relief? Do you claim that added duties on farm crops of which we produce a surplus would aid the American farmer?

Mr. Hoover—America expects you to answer these questions tonight.

It will not be enough to promise, if elected, to call an extra session of Congress. The people of America look upon that belated promise, not as farm relief, but as an effort to secure farm votes. Millions await your answer.

ROCKNE PICKS MINNESOTA AND ILLINOIS TO WIN BIG TEN GAMES

MISSOURI, NEBRASKA AND OKLAHOMA ARE FAVORED IN OTHER MID-WEST FEATURES

By Knute Rockne,

Football Coach, Notre Dame University.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 2.—This Saturday there is a sort of midseason lull—many of the Middle Western teams are taking a breather before starting on the strenuous last half of their schedules. There are, however, three games in Big Ten circles that are outstanding.

I would say that the Princeton-Ohio game should furnish the high light of the week-end. Princeton did not look very impressive against Cornell last Saturday while Ohio State seems to be gaining momentum rapidly. This would tend to point to a sure Ohio State victory. It would but for one thing—when does Roper intend to key up his Tigers? Playing a comparatively easy schedule, Roper can confine his keying up to two games near the end of the season, and there is no man who can send a team onto the field in a more determined state of mind than Bill Roper. If he decides that Saturday is the day, look out Ohio State will be in for a clanging. If Bill decides to save the verbal pyrotechnics until the Yale and Navy games then I would say that Ohio will win.

Dr. Wilce has a problem on his hands as to whether or not to shoot the works against Princeton. The Saturday following comes the undefeated Iowa team for a game which should go a long way toward determining the Big Ten championship. As I said, it is a tough spot for Wilce. However, the doctor is a sensible man and he probably crosses each bridge as he comes to it.

Different Gopher Eleven. Northwestern's great showing against Illinois perhaps gives its supporters hope against Minnesota. However, the Minnesota team which will play Northwestern will be in a different frame of mind than the team that was beaten by Iowa. It is my opinion that the Minnesota team was ruined by too much All-America publicity before the Iowa game. As a result some of the boys were up in the clouds. It should be a different team this week, but I look for Northwestern to play a whole of a game, particularly if Bruder is back. It will be a game well worth seeing.

This has been a season of upsets, though this phenomenon has been confined mostly to the East so far. Illinois looks like a sure thing against Michigan. It is this kind of psychology that creates upsets. Zuppke has no doubt, done his best to counteract this poison, but if the Illinois team should be overconfident, look out for Michigan. Since the Ohio Wesleyan game, somebody has done some fine coaching at Ann Arbor, particularly as regards the line. In the last two games the Michigan line has played wonderful football. The backfield, in the Wisconsin game, showed a few spots of real offense.

Kansas at Nebraska. Illinois at Michigan.

Rockne's Picks

Ohio State-Princeton game looks like a stand-off.

Minnesota favored over Northwestern.

Illinois picked to win over Michigan.

Pennsylvania to defeat Chicago.

Iowa to beat South Dakota.

Purdue over Case.

Wisconsin will have to be at best to beat Alabama.

Oklahoma over Iowa State.

Nebraska to trim Kansas.

Missouri too strong for Drake.

Creighton over South Dakota State.

Marquette to defeat Grinnell.

Notre Dame to win from Penn State.

Michigan's weakness so far has been in its defense against forward passes.

Michigan coaches have no doubt worked on this feature and the Wolverines will be no setup for anybody.

Illinois should win if the team has the proper state of mind.

The Michigan team has been improving has been remarkable from a coaching point of view.

Stagg Laying for Zuppke.

Although beaten by the Navy, Penn appears to have too much material for Stagg.

Penn's hidden ball offense is effective against a weak line, and riddled by injuries.

The Maroon line is not up to Stagg's standards at all.

I have a hunch that Stagg is laying for Zuppke more than anybody else.

Iowa takes a breather against South Dakota.

Purdue case with a so-called contest with Case and Indiana lay off entirely.

At Madison, Wisconsin will have to play football to beat Alabama.

As the Southerners have a powerful team.

In the Missouri Valley, there is no really outstanding game.

Oklahoma appears to be too strong for Iowa State.

The Cornhuskers play the Jayhawkers at Lawrence, and while Kansas will no doubt put up its fine traditional fight in this game.

Bill Hargis has not the material to combat the Nebraska juggernaut led by plunging Bill Howell.

The Missouri-Drake game looks like a win for Missouri.

Country Day's First Team and Star Quarterback

COUNTRY DAY IS READY FOR TILT WITH MILWAUKEE

The Country Day School football eleven, winner in four out of five games this season, will face a real test tomorrow, when Coach Hughes sends his charges against Milwaukee Country Day in a game at Milwaukee tomorrow.

The St. Louis eleven will depart tonight. So far this season, Country Day, rated as one of the best eleven in the Prep League, has scored 110 points against but 19 for the opposition.

McBride, C. B. C., Kansas City Country Day and John Burroughs have been defeated, while the lone reverse came in a Prep League battle against Western Military Academy, 7 to 0.

Facing the Milwaukee eleven tomorrow, the St. Louis team will be trying to break a losing streak against the Brewer City eleven, inasmuch as in all previous meetings, the local team has been defeated.

Coach Hughes sent his squad through a brief signal drill in final preparation for the game yesterday.

CLEVELAND WILL FACE BEAUMONT WITH NEW LINE

By Harold Tuthill

Out of the wreck that constituted the Cleveland High School football team last week, there has arisen a reassembled model to confront Beaumont tomorrow in the first game of the afternoon double-header at the Public School Stadium.

The second battle of the High School League twin-bill calls for Saldan to meet Central, Roosevelt drew the bye.

That Coach Bert Fenenga was dissatisfied with the showing of Cleveland in last week's opening game with Saldan is evidenced by the fact that three regulars, Thompson, Kerchoff and Hellmich, have been benched in favor of Jansen, Schumacher and Smart.

The entire left side of Cleveland's front line has been changed. Schumacher will start at end and Smart at tackle in the revised lineup.

Mosar and Beckemeier have shifted places, so that Beckemeier has become the pivot man.

In the backfield, Thompson has been replaced by Earl Jansen and Bieber may assume his old place at fullback.

The right side of the line remains intact with Oswald at guard, Clanciola at tackle and Miller at end.

Just how effective the revamped Cleveland machine will be remains to be seen.

Continued rain has not helped Beaumont, as the North End eleven does not boast of as weighty a team as Cleveland.

If the field has no chance to dry out between now and game-time, the odds, which are at present even, will shift in favor of the Cleveland eleven.

Beaumont Backs Ailing.

The North End squad is made up of veterans, but injuries to some of the regulars may force Lewis to call upon his reserve supply.

The entire Beaumont backfield, with the exception of Weidner, is limping. It is almost certain that Minges will start at one of the halves, with Nickle or Snell at the other.

Barnhouse will start if he is able. Haney is being groomed to replace Barnhouse.

The sentiment at Saldan is that the team should not have as much difficulty defeating Central as it is having.

HANDLESS CUE STAR BREAKS EVEN IN LOCAL EXHIBITION

George H. Sutton, handless billiard star, won three games and lost three in his billiard exhibition here yesterday afternoon and last night, at Peterson's, against outstanding local talent.

Dr. L. P. Macklin, former national amateur three-cushion champion, defeated Sutton twice in the three-cushion game, winning in the afternoon, 15 to 11, a 22 innings, and 15 to 3, in 17 innings, in the evening.

A. Schass furnished the surprise of all the matches when he won from that handless expert, 100 to 93, scoring a high run of 39 and an unfinished run of 27.

R. W. Hansen, E. F. Gibbons, and P. E. Whitney were the players who were defeated. Hansen lost at straight rail, 100 to 25 in four innings.

Sutton's high run was 33. At balk line, Gibbons, local champion, lost 100 to 86 in 13 innings.

Whitney, at straight rail, went down 100 to 13. In this game Sutton had a high run of 52.

AMATEUR RULE IS DIRECTED AGAINST POOR MAN, DR. CURTIS ASSERTS

ATHLETICS IN COLLEGE RANKS ARE "SEMIPRO", DIRECTOR SAYS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Sharp criticism of the present amateur athletic standards is made in the current issue of the new publication, "Sportsmanship," by Dr. Henry Stoddard Curtis, State director of physical education in Missouri and former secretary and vice president of the Playground Association of America.

"Our present amateur rule makes an infinite amount of trouble without getting anywhere," said Dr. Curtis in an article entitled "What Is an Amateur?"

"It is directed solely against the poor fellow, but in his case, it is nearly always violated in spirit if not in letter. It is a carry-over from aristocratic Europe that is not justified in democratic America."

"The poor man cannot afford to give the amount of time that intercollegiate athletics take in order to make a spectacle for others. If we give him an athletic scholarship or compensate him at current prices for the time taken, we shall only put him on the same basis as the other fellow who does not need to make his way."

College Play Semi-Pro.

"If we believe that playing on the team is service to the school should we require of the struggling student that it be free?"

The type of play which is represented in intercollegiate contests, Dr. Curtis says, "is semi-professional."

"It is not play in the strict sense, because the interest is primarily in the result. Its significance is not in the activity, but in the spectators. It is often the chief occupation and interest of the contestants during the season."

"It is not supposed to be rewarded directly in money, although it often is, but it is rewarded in publicity, in social position, in hero worship, in jobs, in travel, vacations and in many other ways."

This type of athlete, as represented by the college football star, is contrasted by Dr. Curtis on the one hand with "the true amateur who plays without looking for applause or spectators," and on the other with the "type of amateur play" which "Tilden, Paddock and Miss Langlen represent."

"While they are making a profession and a living from the occupations they follow," said Dr. Curtis, "they are not paid directly in money."

"Tilden has played tennis nearly every day for years and, in one way or another has made his living by it, but a high school boy who plays an exhibition game at a fair and receives $5 for it is a professional all the rest of his life, not only in tennis but in football and baseball as well.

The sordidness of the standard is evident. It says that there is no other reward but money and there is no way in which the well-to-do can become professional."

Declaring that one of the fallacies regarding the present rule is that the amateur rule as now practiced secures the participation of large numbers, Dr. Curtis asserts:

"It would be well if the period of competition in all the larger universities could be limited to one year for each major sport."

"Certainly the rule of some of the conferences that no one should compete during his freshman year should be universal. The athlete should not be allowed to compete in any college in any sport for more than three years and he should be expected to make satisfactory grades in the required number of subjects."

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A world series tournament to decide the national bowling championship will be held between the leading teams of New York City and Chicago if negotiations under way today are successfully completed.

Sponsors of the major league tournament under way here are seeking to have the winner of this competition meet the winner of the famous Handicap League tournament in Chicago in a match which will decide the championship. Some of the greatest bowlers in the country are entered in both these tournaments.

TIGERS, DRILLING FOR DRAKE, USE NEW BACKFIELD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 2.—For four days now, Coach Gwinn Henry has been striving to revamp a Tiger eleven that proved anything but satisfied with the results of his four days' work.

Henry has definitely made his first team selections, but he is not sure that his second string would not play a better game against the Bulldogs than the regulars.

The Tiger coach still has the intention of starting his regular team, but in practice this week most of his efforts have been directed at the reserves. Yesterday a second string backfield was working behind the regular line, and Henry spent most of his time with the reserve backs.

Works New Backfield.

One combination of reserves which seems to have struck the Missouri coach's fancy and has come in for much attention this week is Cox, quarterback; Garner and Nash, halfbacks; Gilbert, fullback. All of the men are in their first year of competition. The quartet had been rated as the third string backfield, but performance by all four of them in games so far this season has placed them up the line above some of the veterans.

Cox, who hails from St. Joseph, is one of the smallest men on the squad, but in the Centre encouraged the way to some of his more experienced brothers, scoring one of the Tiger touchdowns. Garner of Quapaw, Ok., and Nash, who gained his first football experience in St. Louis, both tip the scales at 175. Gilbert of Columbia, the fourth member of the sophomore backfield, matches the halfback pair in weight.

Gilbert adds another threat to the Tiger sophomore outfit by his ability at long and accurate punting.

Reserves to See Action.

Should the Missouri No. 1 backfield develop another epidemic of fumbling, the sophomore quartet seems to be likely to bear the brunt of the Missouri offense.

Graduations will take a heavy toll at Missouri this year, and even though the regulars will not alter the future game, Henry said today, he intends to avoid having to face his next season with an unseasoned squad by using his reserves regularly. Regardless of how his varsity performs Saturday, the schedule will be almost constantly freshened by the insertion of reserves.

Wellman's 612 was high for the Perfectionists, while G. Conrad paced the Daus.

De Vos Meets Shade Tonight

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Seeking revenge and a promised chance to tackle Mickey Walker for his mid-dleweight crown, Dave De Vos, wiry Belgian warrior, in one of the most important ring duels of Chicago's indoor season at the Coliseum tonight.

The bout will be 10 rounds to a decision and a gate of $25,000 seems assured.

De Vos handed Shade an unmerciful beating in their previous encounter at Philadelphia last summer, incapacitating him for several weeks. Shade charged the Belgian was permitted by the referee to foul him repeatedly.

Although the Californian has never lost a fight in Chicago, De Vos was the general favorite. The Belgian has whipped virtually every ranking middleweight championship contender, including George Courtney, K. O. Phil Kaplan and "Babe" McGorray. Both fighters have been training strenuously for tonight's match.

Hockey's Greatest Need In Development of U. S. Stars Says Ranger Owner

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Professional hockey, once a step-child of sports at the mercy of the elements, is shooting for "big money" these days, confident that within a year or two the puck chasing industry will stand alone at the head of indoor sports.

But like any sport jumping into popularity almost overnight, hockey is feeling its growing pains. The game has come so fast that rinks in the National League already are too small for the crowds that now are flocking to its standard. Out-riding players and material are scarce and costly. Fans still must be educated to the intricacies and niceties of the pastime.

Col. John S. Hammond, tall, stately president of the World Champion New York Rangers, who brought hockey into New York three years ago and started its mushroom growth, called "time" long enough yesterday to talk about it. He is planning to pay radio chain $2,000 for a half hour on the air each night that the Rangers play in New York. That will cost the Rangers $30,000—but that's part of the "campaign of education."

"Mechanical ingenuity," he said, "has made the tremendous growth of hockey possible. It has three of the greatest possible advantages—it is played at night, it is an outdoor game played indoors independently of the weather and dovetails perfectly with boxing."

Reason for Its Growth.

"Once it took 120 men to clear the Madison Square Garden rink of ice after a game. Now the apparatus has been perfected to such an extent that water is sprayed on

$40,000 Deficit From Sports at Yale Last Year

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2. A Yale athletics, notwithstanding a standing gross revenue of $1,119,230.19, is shown in the annual statement for the year ended June 30, published today. Football was the great revenue maker with $1,023,211.95 gross and $342,984.76 profit.

The general deficit was due to a heavy building program.

the cement floor, freezing as it falls, until the coating is but five-eighths of an inch thick. It is the toughest ice in the world.

"When it comes to remove it, hot water flows through the pipes that a few hours earlier carried the freezing mixture. In a few minutes the ice is reduced to a rubber-like consistency. Then it's cut, rolled up like strips of carpet, dropped into a tank, and the steam turned on. In 10 minutes it's all over, and done by half a dozen men."

"I sat in once on a hockey game indoors in Canada when the temperature of the building was four degrees below zero. Now the rinks are warm and comfortable and the ice barely gets soft. That's one of the great reasons for its growth. Hockey's great need, as Col. Hammond sees it, is to develop American stars from college and amateur teams to strengthen the material heretofore recruited entirely from Canada. Myles Lane of Dartmouth, is the first Ranger recruit and Hammond hopes to land Win Palmer, crack Yale forward, when his college days are over.

Values Team at $250,000.

Hockey, the Colonel says, is sweeping the country, new leagues are forming on the Pacific coast, the Midwestern States, and even in the South with a focal point at Dallas, Tex. So great has been the increase in the value of the material heretofore recruited entirely from Canada. Myles Lane of Dartmouth, is the first Ranger recruit and Hammond hopes to land Win Palmer, crack Yale forward, when his college days are over.

Going into the statistics of the growth of the game, Col. Hammond produced a chart that showed hockey played to 300,000 more customers last year in the league circuit than it did the year before even though attendance fell off in Pittsburgh and Chicago due to poor facilities. The Ranger attendance averaged $800 a game, a jump over the previous year. In two more seasons, he predicts, the world champion team will play to 50,000 indoors.

There are some drawbacks, however. "Three years ago," said the Colonel, "I could buy a good hockey player for $5000. Now they cost $25,000 and an offer of $50,000 for Howie Morenz, of the Canadiens, was refused. The average salary then was $5000. Minor league players get that now and the four month work. Hockey players are intelligent. They know the value of their services."

ADDIT MORRISON HUNTER CALIFORNIA

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Willie L. Hunter, of Montebello, Calif., accurately of Alhambra, Calif., Southern California championship here, finishing the 72-hole stroke. A 26-hole playoff was played public and the present tournament Hunter turned in a 74 for the 18-hole day. His scores for the 72-hole tournament were 74-75-76-77-78-79-80-81-82-83-84-85-86-87-88-89-90-91-92-93-94-95-96-97-98-99-100-101-102-103-104-105-106-107-108-109-110-111-112-113-114-115-116-117-118-119-120-121-122-123-124-125-126-127-128-129-130-131-132-133-134-135-136-137-138-139-140-141-142-143-144-145-146-147-148-149-150-151-152-153-154-155-156-157-158-159-160-161-162-163-164-165-166-167-168-169-170-171-172-173-174-175-176-177-178-179-180-181-182-183-184-185-186-187-188-189-190-191-192-193-194-195-196-197-198-199-200-201-202-203-204-205-206-207-208-209-210-211-212-213-214-215-216-217-218-219-220-221-222-223-224-225-226-227-228-229-230-231-232-233-234-235-236-237-238-239-240-241-242-243-244-245-246-247-248-249-250-251-252-253-254-255-256-257-258-259-260-261-262-263-264-265-266-267-268-269-270-271-272-273-274-275-276-277-278-279-280-281-282-283-284-285-286-287-288-289-290-291-292-293-294-295-296-297-298-299-300-301-302-303-304-305-306-307-308-309-310-311-312-313-314-315-316-317-318-319-320-321-322-323-324-325-326-327-328-329-330-331-332-333-334-335-336-337-338-339-340-341-342-343-344-345-346-347-348-349-350-351-352-353-354-355-356-357-358-359-360-361-362-363-364-365-366-367-368-369-370-371-372-373-374-375-376-377-378-379-380-381-382-383-384-385-386-387-388-389-390-391-392-393-394-395-396-397-398-399-400-401-402-403-404-405-406-407-408-409-410-411-412-413-414-415-416-417-418-419-420-421-422-423-424-425-426-427-428-429-430-431-432-433-434-435-436-437-438-439-440-441-442-443-444-445-446-447-448-449-450-451-452-453-454-455-456-457-458-459-460-461-462-463-464-465-466-467-468-469-470-471-472-473-474-475-476-477-478-479-480-481-482-483-484-485-486-487-488-489-490-491-492-493-494-495-496-497-498-499-500-501-502-503-504-505-506-507-508-509-510-511-512-513-514-515-516-517-518-519-520-521-522-523-524-525-526-527-528-529-530-531-532-533-534-535-536-537-538-539-540-541-542-543-544-545-546-547-548-549-550-551-552-553-554-555-556-557-558-559-560-561-562-563-564-565-566-567-568-569-570-571-572-573-574-575-576-577-578-579-580-581-582-583-584-585-586-587-588-589-590-591-592-593-594-595-596-597-598-599-600-601-602-603-604-605-606-607-608-609-610-611-612-613-614-615-616-617-618-619-620-621-622-623-624-625-626-627-628-629-630-631-632-633-634-635-636-637-638-639-640-641-642-643-644-645-646-647-648-649-650-651-652-653-654-655-656-657-658-659-660-661-662-663-664-665-666-667-668-669-670-671-672-673-674-675-676-677-678-679-680-681-682-683-684-685-686-687-688-689-690-691-692-693-694-695-696-697-698-699-700-701-702-703-704-705-706-707-708-709-710-711-712-713-714-715-716-717-718-719-720-721-722-723-724-725-726-727-728-729-730-731-732-733-734-735-736-737-738-739-740-741-742-743-744-745-746-747-748-749-750-751-752-753-754-755-756-757-758-759-760-761-762-763-764-765-766-767-768-769-770-771-772-773-774-775-776-777-778-779-780-781-782-783-784-785-786-787-788-789-790-791-792-793-794-795-796-797-798-799-800-801-802-803-804-805-806-807-808-809-810-811-812-813-814-815-816-817-818-819-820-821-822-823-824-825-826-827-828-829-830-831-832-833-834-835-836-837-838-839-840-841-842-843-844-845-846-847-848-849-850-851-852-853-854-855-856-857-858-859-860-861-862-863-864-865-866-867-868-869-870-871-872-873-874-875-876-877-878-879-880-881-882-883-884-885-886-887-888-889-890-891-892-893-894-895-896-897-898-

THE RIGHT TO EAT!

HERE'S good news—more than a bit of it—for the new victims of starvation.

Who are not the poor nor the refugees of war, but simply the girls 16 to 60, who have practically quit eating.

Who have made reducing ridiculous—since they have reduced not merely their weight but their vitality, nerve control and sunny disposition to the vanishing point.

Women, we think, are foolish to allow themselves to be really overweight.

Although, of course, they should reduce only under medical supervision.

But, though the woman not immoderately fat is more comfortable and can enjoy life better.

It is just as true that the woman who goes to the other extreme—who starves to be immoderately thin—

This woman is foolishly endangering health and comfort.

Every normal human being should enjoy the right to eat.

And to the poor dear reducers who deny themselves the right.

We submit the following advice and admonition from the news of the day:

Dr. Solomon Strouse of the University of Chicago says, flatly: "I hold no brief against food."

"I believe it probably has little, if anything to do with length of life."

"I find in actual practice comparatively few examples of excessive food indulgence to the point of harm."

"It is possible to conceive of under-nutrition causing more trouble than overeating."

Here's one sound medical opinion to set against all the medical scoldings.

Directed at middle-aged folk with a slight extra poundage due to good dinners.

The next time you want some French pastry or a nice baked potato—

Take a chance!

The Public Health Service and New York State Health Department warn.

That lack of regular meals and of substantial food increases the tendency to tuberculosis among women.

So, girls, you needn't—indeed you shouldn't—give up the egg-and-cream custard.

Or a slice, now and then, of delectable chocolate cake.

Even candy, declares Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the American Public Health Association, is a highly nourishing food.

And should take its place in our daily diet.

"Some people think it is fattening," he admits.

"But candy is like everything else; it isn't the use of a thing that makes it the abuse."

So don't wear off nut chocolates altogether, dear feminine readers.

Include them in the good things you have the right to eat—

It is not to overeat.

For finally, there is the word of the champion connoisseur of them all—

Of that prize picker of pulchritude, Flo Ziegfeld himself—

Who has just told Bide Dudley of The Evening World

That out of 9,000 damsels turned down by him this year

"Most of them were too skinny merely because of vanity."

"They had been dieting as a result of the foolish notion that to be attractive

"They must be ultra-slender, pale and leucodermic."

"Until they possessed neither flesh in attractive quantities nor pep."

"I let them go home quick."

So, really what is the use?"

By denying herself the right to eat.

A woman not only misses the goodies—

Not only endangers her health—

Not even misses her chosen goal—since she destroys, instead of creating.

The beauty for which she is starving—

It all this is true, what does she get out of starvation?

Except a permanent ingrowing groove?

She'd better draw up to the table and eat a square meal!

Crab Gumbo.

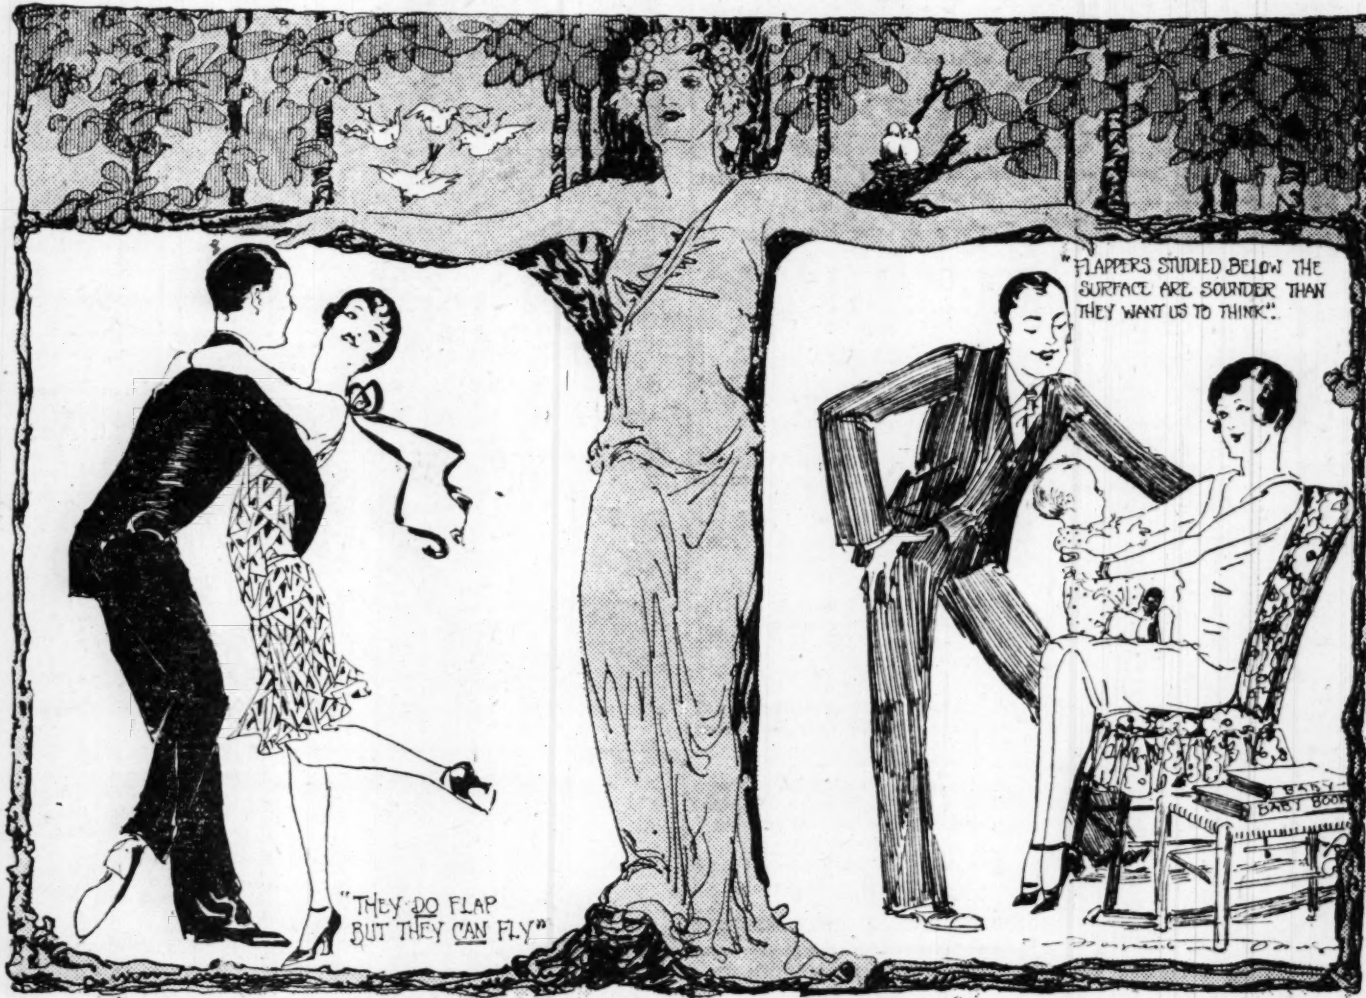

A little bit of the ordinary and very pleasing to the taste. Mince one green pepper and one onion and brown in butter. Add two slices of finely-chopped boiled ham and one quart of stock, preferably chicken or veal. Add one pint of okra pods, one cup tomato pulp and one pint crab meat. Season with salt and black pepper. Simmer three tablespoons four and mix. Bring to a boil and serve.

Two-Toned Leather.

So often the lighter shade in the two-toned sports oxfords becomes soiled. Try art gum on this section to clean it. It will look much better than if cleaned with a cleaning fluid and will keep the shoes new-looking longer.

Fruit Cup Supreme.

Two cups grapefruit pulp, 2 cups orange pulp, 2 cups crushed pineapple, sugar to taste. Into sterilized glasses place a generous spoonful of orange water ice. Then fill glasses with the fruit mixture and serve immediately.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

THE answer to the agitating question, "Whither are our young people trending?" is best to be found in the books being written and read by the younger generation, was the conclusion of Dr. Richard Burton, formerly of Minnesota University, in an address at the Town Club the other evening.

His subject: "The younger generation speaks." He was accompanied by "through the books."

A specialist dealing with young people, sympathetically mingling with them in school groups as he lectures over the country, "assuming the gay and jaunty air of five-and-twenty," I still, down deep in my guilty heart, know that I do not get next to them," he confessed.

Parents who would presumably have the best chance of getting at them, living with them, feeding, clothing, housing, supplying them with pocket money, have been led, nevertheless, remain outsiders," observed Dr. Burton.

"With protesting egoism, youth exclaims, 'mother (or father) you do not understand, and in contrast to another day, when, had he announced, 'I have an ego,' he would have been led to the bed chamber and certain drastic measures administered, now parents merely confess themselves baffled."

Ah, but in an abundant literature being turned out by youth itself to be read by the young, they do reveal themselves. In their books they are caught off their guard.

"There has been no earlier period when so many of the young have been literate and literary," he continued, "Today it seems as if children were born with pen in hand and a publisher waiting at the cradle to sign them up for a book. There is more than literary interest in their books, for, intentionally or unintentionally, they here reveal their characteristics, their desires, aspirations, dreams, passions and ambitions."

"It is the age of the infant in art," he said, citing such examples as Nathalia Crane, still a child, who uses words which send a professor of philology back to the dictionary; Princess Bibesco, whose first book written at 18 caused her to be crowned by the French Academy; the 18-year-old English girl, author of The Rampant Age, which has been banned by British circulating libraries. As examples of books and authors revealing modern youth's attitude toward life he cited Percy Marks and his Plastic Age, Rosamond Lehmann and her Dusty Answer, Vina Delmar and her Bad Girl, the works of Louis Bromfield, Ernest Hemingway, Margaret Kennedy, Elizabeth Bowen, S. V. Benet, Elizabeth Roberts, Glenway Westcott and others.

"Now, what do these books of the hour, almost of the moment, reveal?" he asked. "Is youth today a picture of degeneracy or merely a sign of the Greater Freedom? When the smoke of battle has cleared away, will there be registered gain or loss?"

He drew from the young authors illustrations of deplorable and healthful signs of the times. In more than one instance he found healthful signs where another old hand and high brow would have found degeneracy. For example, in Vina Delmar's Bad Girl.

"Discussing this book, I have invited arguments as violent as those between partisans of Hoover and Smith. Such differences only make life more interesting," he remarked.

It was his opinion that not all the blatant banality and vulgarity of this book concealed the underlying truth and beauty of honest affection as the girl passed through stages of flapperhood to motherhood.

"We are not to be too alarmed over the flapper type," he said. "While she does flap, it is revealed that she can fly."

"We must not confuse social customs with morality," he insisted, "nor pick out sporadic examples as typical. Short skirts, cocktail, they are superficial. Egoism characterizes the work of Richard Halliburton, but egoism is not illegitimate, he contended.

"Tooth is substituting individual rights for what we used to call duties," he observed. "Willing to try anything once, is the new motto."

Dusty Answer as a picture of school associations he described as a truthful chronicle. Contrasted with Tom Brown at Rugby on a similar theme, it revealed how family obligation becomes an obsolete virtue. Contempt for emotion, for the moist, weepy characters of Dickens and his times, is a tendency he deplored. "We shall forget how to weep. Atrophy any function and it will die of inaction," he remarked.

Young men observing woman in her new independence was another revelation of the new books, and the young man's respectful acceptance of her announcement, "I've got a job, what better can you offer?" Just as the older generation fails to understand the new, these new writers have their limitations and are not able to realize the blood and iron of the pioneers as exemplified by Glenway Westcott's Grandmothers.

Frank sensationalism, failure in emphasis, unimportant made important, are faults revealed by the younger generation of writers. The tendency to defy brains was noted. The smart Aleck development of the brain and intellectual experimentation are emphasized. Most of the braggadocio, hard boiled, tough mindedness he thought a pose. An amusing experience brought home to himself as a self-proclaimed member of the intelligentsia was related.

He chanced upon a book entitled Heart Throbs, a collection of sentimental poems at which he was scoffingly pooh-poohing when his own name twice in the index caught his eye. He confessed a thrill at having been included in an edition which according to its advertisement had reached 10,000 copies. Likewise he acknowledged being able to lose himself in the "ineffable beauty of Wordsworth" and other writers of the older order when seeking a refuge from sordid surroundings of hotels and sleeping cars.

SUMMARIZING, he found great fault with the selfish egoism of youth, abandonment of the saving older ideals and, most fundamental, the lack of religion.

"Say what you will, a mooring to some religious conviction makes for character. In the transition the young are off with the old and not yet on with the new. There is the unevanescent abandonment of what we used to call faith. Motorizing the old day I was confronted by a sign, 'Stop before you are killed because you'll always be dead.' Such a sentiment would not have been expressed 50 years ago. Plotlessness is distinctly a characteristic of the new books and they reflect life as plotless, formless, goal-less."

"The greatest gain is reflected in honesty, independence, intellectual activity."

"Is the future dark? Not so dark as some fear. These alarming changes are due to the brain and to fashion, largely. Deep under it all, the vital flow of personality can be trusted as a corrective. Flappers studied below the surface are sounder than they want us to think. When life's test comes along, I trust dear old Dame Nature. The love instinct, mother instinct, social instinct, will do much. And they are not things of yesterday."

"Knowledge is a two-edged sword, indispensable for hewing one's way but likely to cut the inexperienced wielder. We have placed this sword in the hands of our youth; because of the repressions of the past, they haven't had practice in wielding it; they are cutting themselves now and then as they hew. Yet is knowledge the one sword to kill error and cleave straight to the truth. In time, it is my faith they will be able to swing it without harm to themselves or to others. I rest the case right there; an attitude of watchful waiting, with a slant toward optimism."

POINTMENT
A tried and trusty friend for 50 years.

Have you seen the Charter Oak Parlor Furnace with its patented automatic damper and heat equalizer? The damper is an exclusive automatic control which keeps the fire from burning too fast or too slowly.

When the fire begins to burn too fast, this damper checks the drafts and prevents excess heat and a waste of coal.

Then when the fire cools and begins to burn too slowly, the automatic damper closes and lets the fire burn more rapidly again, avoiding the need for a lot of coal to revive a nearly-out fire.

In addition to fuel economy, the automatic damper assures an even, healthful, comfortable heat all the time.

Before you buy any heating unit for your home, see the Charter Oak Parlor Furnace with its exclusive and valuable heat equalizer. It is porcelain enameled in colors to harmonize with your furniture and is as easily kept clean.

At the Charter Oak dealer's. If your dealer does not carry Charter Oak Stoves, write us, mentioning his name.

AMONG THE TROUBLEMAKERS

By Dorothy Frooms

FRIENDS and relatives do not realize what a spoken word can do. Often the dropping of a disagreeable thought to one about another creates disturbances. It may not be intentional but the damage is done.

In one family there are two brothers who are inseparable. The third brother was just tolerated because of his blood relationship.

Every once in a while, this third brother would practice the art of "troublemaking." He would write a letter to one about the other and with the usual "the said that you said" to be the good intermediary.

Had the two brothers not understood each other and the third brother, the trouble would have been endless.

Many women have the faculty of relating stories with just a bit more. Their exaggerated facts could sometimes turn one friend against another. Whether it is a natural inclination to give mental torture is hardly conceivable. When something is told to one and then relayed to another, somebody is suffering a grave injustice.

Worry over something that might happen and annoying every one about it, is troublesome. Trouble blossoms right out if not checked in time.

The best way of overcoming the work of a troublemaker is to check up immediately.

A young man and young woman were engaged to be married. Some third person interfered by making a statement that would hurt any one's reputation. The young man was advised to remain silent and ignore the charge. Rightfully, he challenged the remark and brought the troublemaker to the mat. Up to investigation, it was learned that the accusation was ungrounded, uncalculated and, in fact, malicious.

One who whispers something into your ear about somebody else is bound to whisper into somebody else's ear something about you.

People who talk of others without foundation and just for amusement generally find that they are everything they charge others with being.

In this age and day both men and women should be too busy to indulge in gossip. Years ago when women attended sewing circles it was expected that when wife returned home she would say: "We did not have a good time because all the members were present."

Today there are bigger things to fill our lives and we eliminate anything that we can if it is trouble or a troublemaker.

Baked Eggs.

More eggs and less meat—more healthful menus. Use the little glass ramekins and serve the eggs right in them so they will keep good and hot. Butter each ramekin and break an egg into each one. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and add a layer of grated sharp cheese. Cover with a layer of breadcrumbs and pour in two tablespoons milk. Bake for about 10 minutes. Garnish each little dish with parsley.
